ROBBERY SCENE — A general view of the inside of the Hibernia Bank branch robbed yesterday by members of the Symbionese Liberation Army shows a woman in the center who resembles Patricia Hearst, who has been named as a participant — though possibly under duress — in the holdup. Coercion is suggested because she was under the guns of other members of the group, as shown by the gun barrels seen at the extreme sides of the photo made by a bank camera. (UPI Telephoto)

Warrant Is Issued For Patty Hearst

Wanted As Witness In Robbery Of Bank

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The FBI, which for 71 days has searched for Patricia Hearst as a kidnap victim, hunted her today also as one of four women who took part in a $10,000 bank robbery.

Photographs and witnesses identified Patricia as one of the Symbionese Liberation Army gang that held up a branch of the Hibernia bank yesterday, but authorities said she may have been forced into the robbery against her will. She was sought on a warrant naming her as a material witness.

As the kidnaping case took still another bizarre turn, the 20-year-old girl's parents—Randolph A. Hearst and his wife, Catherine—prepared to return to their agonizing vigil at their home in suburban Hillsborough after a brief rest at a resort near La Paz, Mexico. They were expected to fly back in an executive jet sometime today.

Mrs. Hearst, contacted by telephone in La Paz, said she cannot believe her daughter took part in the holdup. "I'm so upset I can't talk to you," Mrs. Hearst said. It's so bizarre. I can't believe it."

Earlier, the girl's mother said she and her husband were still convinced "that our daughter has not been converted to the revolutionary philosophy that those terrorists represent."

Hidden bank photos captured the robbery scene, clearly showing Patricia holding a gun, the FBI said. The bank raid was staged by members of the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army which kidnaped Patricia Feb. 4. It occurred 12 days after the victim said in a tape recorded message that she was forsaking her former way of life and joining the forces of the SLA, changing her name to "Tania" in honor of a Bolivian revolutionist.

A warrant was issued for Miss Hearst, granddaughter of famed newspaper founder William Randolph Hearst, as a material witness in the robbery.

"She may have been acting under duress and coercion," said FBI Special Agent in charge, Charles W. Bates, in explaining why she was sought as a material witness instead of a participant. Three other women were named as suspects, and police said five men apparently also were involved —four of them waiting outside in two getaway cars.

Bates said if it were deteroined that Miss Hearst was a willing participant, she also would be charged with bank robbery.

The robbery took place shortly after the 9 a.m. opening of a Hibernia Bank branch in San Francisco's oceanside Sunset

Harder Line Is Pledged In Kidnaps

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Attorney General Evelle Younger, criticizing law enforcement in the abduction of Patricia Hearst, promised yesterday to block any attempts by other kidnapers to obtain free food ransom.

Younger said authorities had been "timid" in dealing with the Symbionese Liberation Army kidnapers of the girl.

"If the FBI thinks a shootout is indicated and wants our help, we will help them," Younger told reporters.

Randolph A. Hearst, father of Patricia, has urged repeatedly that nothing be done to jeopardize her safety, and FBI Agent in Charge Charles Bates has said Hearst's wishes were being respected.

Younger said he himself had been afraid he would "do something to get Miss Hearst killed."

He said future political kidnapings in California will be dealt with differently.

"Should we allow a small band of extortionists to dictate our welfare policies?" he asked.

He said it is time for law enforcement to re-examine its approach in kidnapings.

"We have traditionally responded to kidnapings for ransom by doing nothing which would jeopardize the safety of the victim," he said.

"But we have learned that our approach to a political kidnaping should not be the same. Extortion under the guise of altruistic purposes cannot be permitted again."

Novato Move Dims Hopes For Regional Shop Center

By FRANK FARRARA

Novato's onetime hope for a regional shopping center at the Pinheiro Ranch area, north of downtown, was dimmed last night.

Novato planning commissioners unanimously recommended that the ranch be designated in the Novato General Plan for a community shopping center.

The proposal for a 90-acre regional shopping center, east and west of existing Highway 101, north of Olive Avenue, has been the core of the city's downtown plan, part of the Novato General Plan.

Downgrading of the Pinheiro Ranch land use was recommended by the Novato Downtown Plan Implementation Committee.

Charles Lewis, committee chairman, said a regional shopping center at the site is economically unfeasible, and it would best serve as a community center, junior department store and other shops, but not as a typical neighborhood center with a supermarket and discount drug store.

Planning director Brian W. Mattson said that since the downtown plan was adopted several years ago there have been changes that affect the "viability" of having a regional center at the ranch.

One is the potential for 35-acre commercial development at the Hanna Ranch, south of downtown, and another, the lowering of population projections for the Novato area.

"A regional center on the Pinheiro Ranch is a dead issue," said commissioner John C. Schoonover.

Commissioners voted 4-3 against a staff recommendation to eliminate the option for a regional shopping center at San Marin East, northwest of San Marin Drive and Highway 101.

Tam Board Told Budget Might Be Balanced Without Firings

By BILL ROBERTS

It may be possible to balance Tamalpais High School District's 1974-75 budget without firing any teachers or administrators in spite of a projected $600,000 deficit, district trustees have been told.

The optimistic forecast by Supt. Robert D. Torrey depends on acceptance of a new plan for cutting programs, on finding another $225,000 in fat to trim from the proposed $12.3-million budget and on teachers accepting a 4 per cent wage hike, rather than the 8 per cent provided in the initial budget proposal, or the 15 per cent teachers have requested.

When the deficit — the difference between what the district expected in income when the budget proposal was drafted and what it actually will get — was discovered, trustees instructed staff to come up with budget paring that would save as many jobs as possible.

In the staff's first response, 16 program cuts, with elimination of 36 teaching and administrative jobs, were presented to the board, and that many employees were advised they might not be rehired next year.

On Saturday, Torrey present-

Jaworski Seeks Subpoena For 46 Nixon Documents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski asked a federal court today to issue a subpoena to President Nixon for 46 tapes and documents relating to his conversations about the Watergate scandals.

In a motion, Jaworski asked that Nixon be requested to produce the material prior to Watergate conspiracy trials scheduled to begin in September. These trials involve some of the top former members of the administration including John N. Mitchell, H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman.

Jaworski also attached to his motion filed in U.S. District Court, copies of two of his letters to the President's chief Watergate lawyer, James D. St. Clair, involving tapes and other materials Jaworski has been trying to obtain from the White House.

The latest letter was dated April 11, last Thursday. In it, Jaworski told St. Clair:

"...in accordance with my responsibilities to secure a prompt and fair trial for the government and the defendants, I am obliged to seek a subpoena for those materials we deem necessary for trial."

Jaworski left it up to the court to decide the date on which the subpoena materials would be due.

Jaworski asked for the materials for use in the trials of Mitchell, Nixon's former attorney general; his ex-chief of staff, Haldeman; his former domestic affairs aide, Ehrlichman; Charles W. Colson, a former assistant, and three others who were indicted March 1 on a total of 13 counts charging conspiracy, obstruction of justice and lying.

Proposal To Replace San Quentin Shelved

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Reagan administration proposal to build two new prisons has been set aside indefinitely by an Assembly subcommittee following opposition from prisoners' groups.

Spokesman for the inmates' groups yesterday argued the new prisons would perpetuate the existing state penal system which they deplore. They asked that no new prisons be constructed at least until Gov. Ronald Reagan leaves office.

The administration last month dropped plans for remodeling San Quentin's motorious south block and revived its $140 million proposal to build two new prisons to replace San Quentin which would be closed.

If the Legislature approves the plan, institutions of 2,400 convicts would be built near San Diego and Vacaville. They would be ready for occupancy late in 1978.

After two hours of testimony, the Assembly Ways and Means budget subcommittee shelved the administration plan for $1.1 million in planning funds with no indication when it might be considered again.

"It is criminal if we don't get some action from the legislature as soon as possible," said Raymond Procunier, director of the state Department of Corrections.

"San Quentin is an impossible place in which to live," he said. "I'd close it down tomorrow but I have no place to put them (prisoners)."

But Assemblyman Pauline Davis, D-Portola, one of the three subcommittee members, responded: "I'm not going to give you a single penny until you spell out your program."

Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, added: "This plan perpetuates what we have been doing in the past which has been a total failure."

Two-Day Closing Of Overcrossing

The Greenbrae pedestrian overcrossing at Lucky Drive will be closed tomorrow and Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. for repair work, the state Department of Transportation announced today.

The closing is so that the state's contractor can raise the structure two feet to provide for safer clearance for highway traffic.

Pedestrians may use the walk at the Lucky Drive undercrossing, officials said.

Innocent Pleas To Foster Death

OAKLAND (UPI) — Russell Little and Joseph Remiro, "soldiers of the Symbionese Liberation Army, pleaded innocent today of the Nov. 6 murder of Oakland School Supt. Marcus Foster.

The defendants, sporting big new moustaches, appeared for their pleas in the heavily guarded courtroom of Superior Judge William J. McGuiness.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Penny Hoarding

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hoarding pennies as a hedge against rising copper prices appears to be catching on as a get-rich-quick scheme, and it's got Treasury officials in a dither.

Shoe boxes, cookie jars and piggy banks are fattening up on the copper coins and the government's money machines are hard pressed to keep up with the demand.

Twenty-two billion pennies have dropped out of circulation in the past 15 years. In the first three months of 1974 alone, the nation's monetary system ordered 2 billion more pennies, more than twice the amount as in the same period last year. The problem is so serious that Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz yesterday signed regulations prohibiting the export or melting of pennies and ordered the U.S. Secret Service to enforce the law.

Linked To 'Zebra'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The wounding of two teen-agers near a bus stop was linked by police yesterday to the "Zebra case" — 15 other random shootings that have left 11 persons dead on the city's streets in the past six months.

Chief Inspector Charles A. Barca said preliminary ballistics tests on four shell casings near the scene of Sunday night's shooting "indicate the same weapon was used in prior cases."

Barca said patrolmen in an unmarked car on the "Zebra" squad, which was launched following the shooting of four persons within one hour at separate locations Jan. 27, had seen the latest victims, Ward Anderson, 18, of Mesa, Ariz., and Terry White, 15, of San Francisco, at the bus stop. It was four blocks away when the shooting occurred.

"It's impossible to cover everything," said Barca. "We're just hoping we can catch this killer right in the act.

Niger Is Reported Calm

COTONOU, Dahomey (UPI) — The new military rulers in Niger reported the uranium-rich West African nation "well in hand" today after a bloodless coup by the tiny army.

Radio Niamey said in a broadcast from the capital of neighboring Niger the French-speaking nation of four million was quiet, with the army maintaining a curfew following Monday's military takeover.

Diori

"Everything is well in hand," Lt. Col. Seyni Kountie, the army chief of staff, said over the radio after toppling President Hamani Diori, Niger's ruler since independence from France in 1960.

Niger, which has been devastated by a drought sweeping sub-Sahara Africa since 1973, is the eighth former French West African territory now under military rule. Three still have civilian governments.

Points Blame

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Graham Martin, U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, has accused a leading American theologian of implicit responsibility for the deaths of 32 South Vietnamese children.

In a letter to Dr. George Weber, president of the New York Theological Seminary, Martin said he had implored the theologian to use his "great influence" last January to stop Viet Cong and North Vietnamese mortar and rocket attacks in South Vietnam.

Weber led a delegation of American antiwar activists to South Vietnam in January. Martin wanted him to intervene through Viet Cong and North Vietnamese officials in South Vietnam.

On March 19, a mortar shell landed in a small school in the South Vietnamese village of Cai Lay, killing 32 children and wounding 50 others.

In his letter to Weber, which the clergyman made public yesterday, Martin said that while "no one can be certain", Weber's intervention might have saved the children.

Reform Pledge

ADDIS ABABA (UPI) — The Ethiopian government has promised peasants eventual land reform in an attempt to stifle growing military, labor and student unrest.

Prime Minister Endalkatchew Makonnen made the announcement yesterday 24 hours after Emperor Haile Selassie, 81, named his 20-year-old grandson, Prince Zera Yakob Asfa Wossen, as his eventual successor.

Makonnen, in a nationwide television address, detailed the economic and political problems facing Ethiopia.

The prime minister said his government would press ahead with land reform as demanded by military dissidents and peasants. But he promised no sweeping, immediate measures.

Solidarity March

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Thousands of young Protestants marched through Belfast today in a massive show of solidarity and a rebuttal to Catholic demonstrators who marched Easter.

Armed infantrymen and armored guards lined the parade route, which passed near a Roman Catholic neighborhood, but no violence was reported, an army spokesman said.

The march, which police said drew about 6,000 participants, was organized by the junior Orangemen organizations as a traditional counter to the parades staged by Catholic Irish Republican Army (IRA) sympathizers on Easter Sunday.

Paris Talks Off

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam called off the Paris peace talks today as government troops repulsed some of the heaviest North Vietnamese attacks of the year in the Central highlands.

The Saigon military command said 182 North Vietnamese attackers were killed yesterday, many by air strikes, in a battle at a government ranger and armored cavalry position 19 miles south of Pleiku city, 230 miles north of Saigon.

The government said it lost 21 killed and 58 wounded.

South Vietnamese Foreign Minister Vuong Van Bac said the government decided to suspend the Paris talks "until the Communists show good will for negotiation."

In Paris, the Viet Cong issued a statement saying suspension of the talks was "arbitrary and unilateral."

Paper Hints Egypt May Open Front

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

An Egyptian newspaper hinted today that Egypt might open a second front in the Sinai Desert if the Israel-Syrian fighting cotinues. The fighting in the Golan Heights entered its 36th consecutive day today with intensive Syrian artillery bombardments of Israeli positions atop strategic Mount Hermon.

The newspaper Al Akhbar said Egypt cannot allow Israel to return to the aggressive methods it practiced before last October's war. "The time when Israel was able to practice this method has passed," it said. "Israel cannot remain with one Arab front to concentrate on"

Al Akhbar also warned that "continuing Israeli aggressive policies" constituted a hurdle in the path of current efforts for a lasting peace in the Middle East. Similar fears were expressed yesterday in New York at a meeting of the U.N. Security Council.

A Syrian military delegation, headed by Brig. Gen. Hikmat Chehabi, head of military intelligence, currently is in the United States for talks with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger on a possible Syrian-Israeli troop disengagement.

The Tel Aviv newspaper Ma'ariv said Israeli political leaders have not yet discussed a Syrian proposal for the disengagement of forces.

Even so, Ma'ariv said, Israeli officials would reject the Syrian proposal because it "opposes the principle upon which the Israeli (disengagement) suggestions were based—that in the first stage there would be no Israeli withdrawal beyond the enclave" it captured in the October war.

Controls On Foods Ended

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Cost of Living Council (CLC) has ended 2 ½ years of wage and price regulation in the food industry, but government and industry spokesmen say the action won't affect supermarket prices.

The council yesterday removed wage-price controls from 2.5 million workers and 330,000 firms in the food industry nationwide.

The action allows food wholesalers and retailers to boost prices in order to increase their profit margins. Under the controls they could raise prices only to pass along increases in costs.

The controls would have been lifted soon anyway. The CLC and the remaining wage-price control program —now covering only steel and copper —go out of business April 30, unless Congress intervenes with last-minute legislation to control a few inflaton-prone industries.

Israel Seeks To Get New Government

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The ruling Labor party is trying to set up a new government without elections and hopes to pick a prime minister this weekend, a leading party source said today.

"I think the mood is against new elections," the source said. "The majority opinion in the party is not to have immediate elections."

The same source said Haifa Mayor Joseph Almogi was the favorite to replace Golda Meir as prime minister, with Labor Minister Yitzhak Rabin and Justice Minister Haim Zadok also leading contenders.

"Ideally they would want to have one candidate, but at any rate, no matter how many candidates, they will vote on Sunday for a candidate," the source said.

Born in Poland 63 years ago, Almogi served as minister of Labor in the last government and was the party's mediator in negotiations to set up the old legislative coalition.

After making its choice for prime minister, the source said, a Labor delegation would go to President Ephraim Katzir for a mandate to form a government. He said Katzir would then give the party 21 days to complete the job.

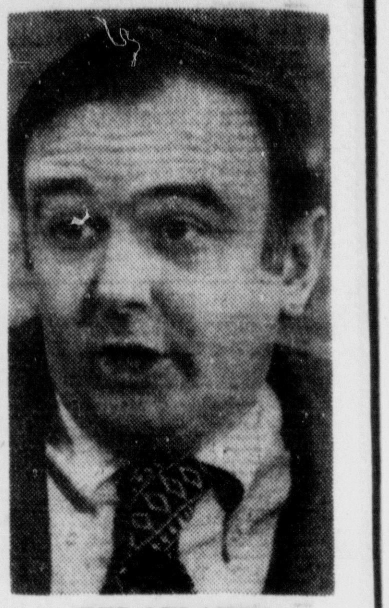
The newspaper Ha'aretz said Foreign Minister Abba Eban and Information Minister Shimon Peres also were being considered for Mrs. Meir's job.

Mrs. Meir announced her resignation last week because of growing factionaism within her party. The move forced the resignation of her entire cabinet after one month in office.

She agreed to continue serving on a caretaker basis until a new government is chosen.

Nuclear Attack Plan For Evacuation Eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the first time in a decade, the Pentagon has reopened studies on how to evacuate U.S. cities in a nuclear crisis, but Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., fears such a step would make nuclear war more likely.



REP. LES ASPIN
Expresses opposition

Aspin yesterday made public a set of maps drawn by the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency showing 400 specific areas the Pentagon considers "prime targets" for a Soviet nuclear attack. They include 248 cities of over 50,000 population and 150 other areas of "military significance"

Aspin said the agency was beginning studies on how to evacuate the areas. Agency spokesmen confirmed that the target list had been prepared at the direction of Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger.

They said Schlesinger also has ordered a survey to find socalled "all effects nuclear shelters" —basements, tunnels, caves and other locations that could protect civilians from both nuclear blast and fallout.

This is the first major Pentagon foray into nuclear civil defense since President John F. Kennedy proposed a nationwide evacuation and fallout shelter system after the 1961 Berlin crisis.

The Kennedy-era programs were discredited in the mid-1960s when Herman Kahn and other nuclear strategists argued that putting people in shelters might inadvertently make the Soviets believe the United States was preparing to launch a nuclar attack and hoped its own population would remain relatively unscathed from retaliation.

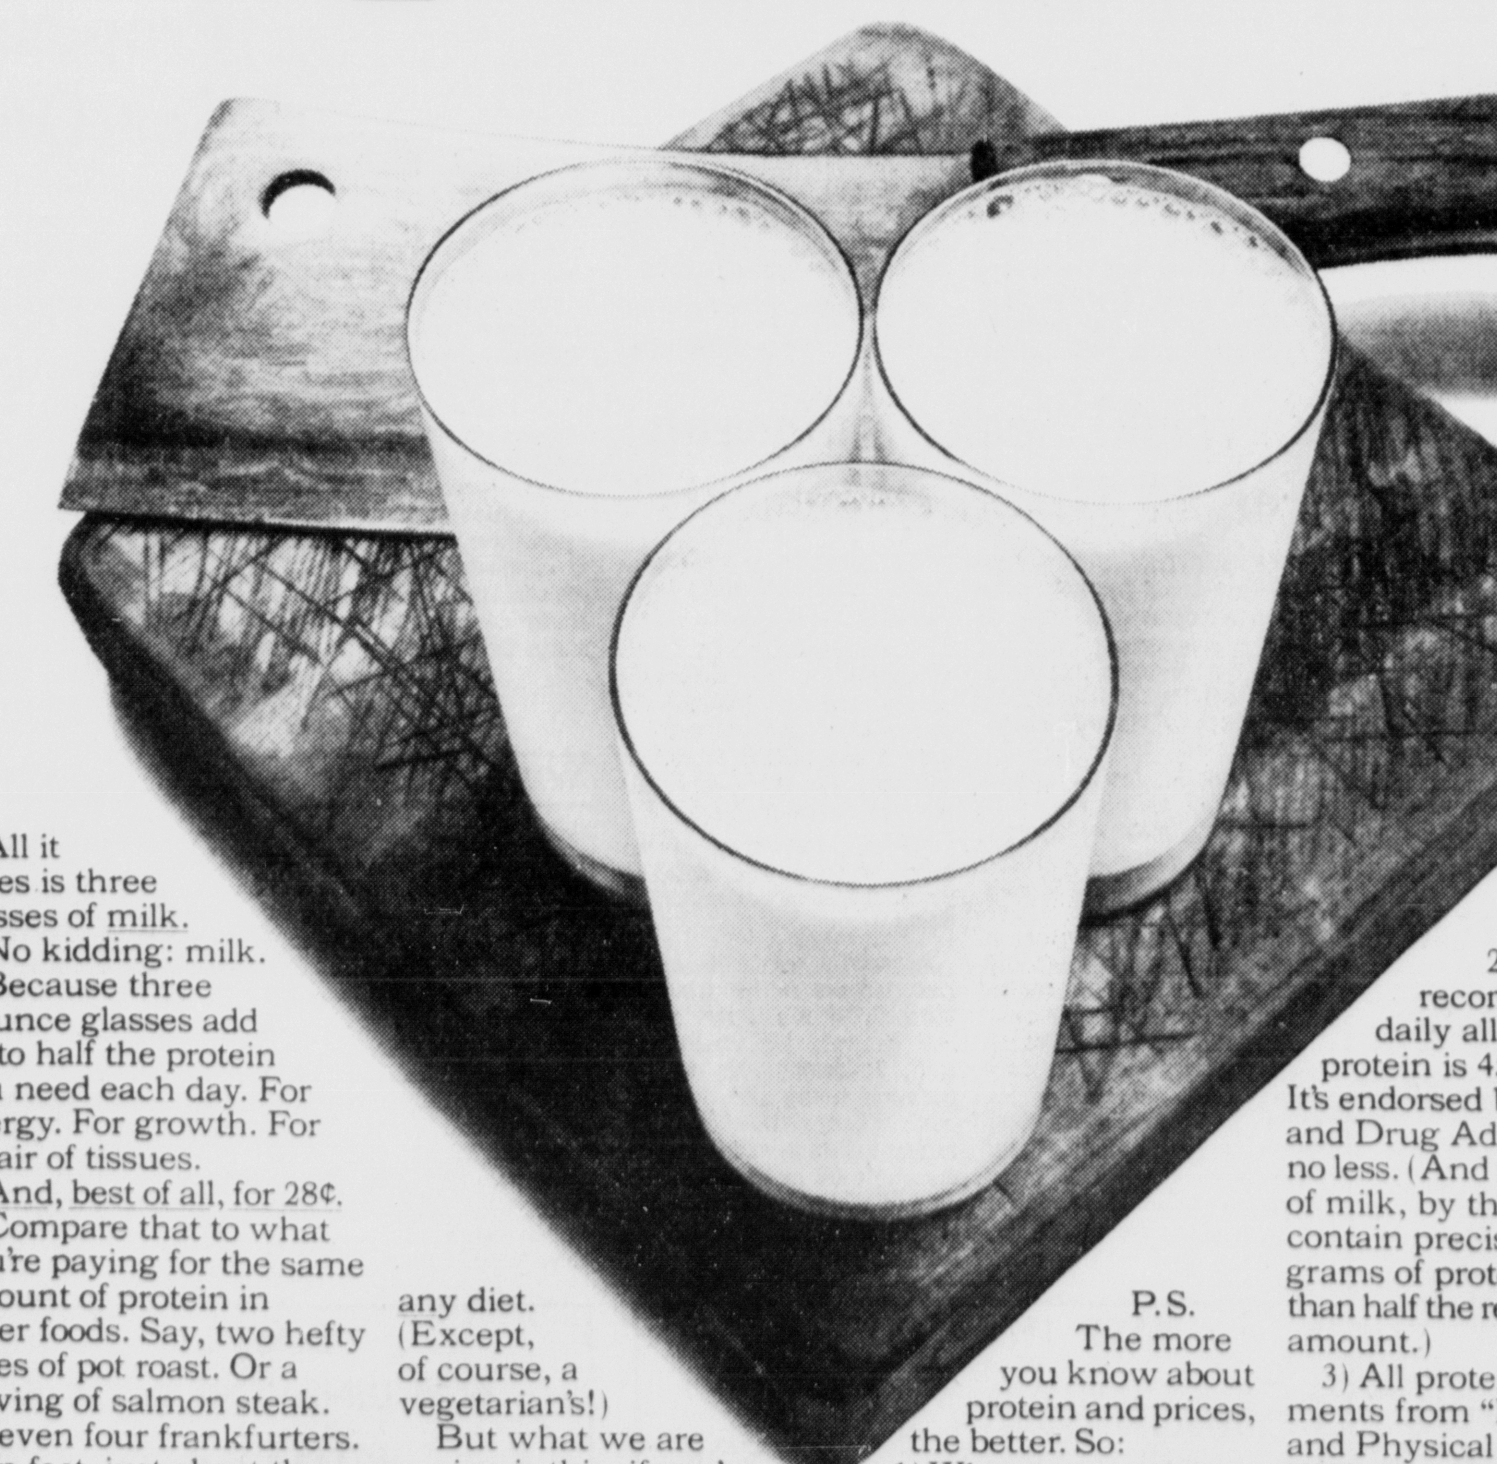
How to cut the price of protein.



All it takes is three glasses of milk.

No kidding: milk.

Because three 8-ounce glasses add up to half the protein you need each day. For energy. For growth. For repair of tissues.

And, best of all, for 28¢.

Compare that to what you're paying for the same amount of protein in other foods. Say, two hefty slices of pot roast. Or a serving of salmon steak. Or even four frankfurters.

In fact, just about the only protein you can get for less these days comes from certain dried peas, beans and nuts.

Now: does this mean we're saying don't eat meat or fish? No way—because they belong in any diet. (Except, of course, a vegetarian's!)

But what we are saying is this: if you're concerned about the rising price of protein, now you know a thrifty way to get it.

In fact, you can pour it on.

California Milk
Advisory Board

P.S.
The more you know about protein and prices, the better. So:

1) When we say three glasses, we mean eight ounces per…or 24 ounces in all. And that price of 28¢ is based on the average price for one-half gallon of milk in stores throughout California. And you're welcome.

2) The recommended daily allowance of protein is 45 grams. It's endorsed by the Food and Drug Administration, no less. (And three glasses of milk, by the way, contain precisely 25.5 grams of protein: more than half the recommended amount.)

3) All protein measurements from "Nutrition and Physical Fitness," W.B. Saunders Co., ©1973. Very meaty book.

Milk has something for every body.

Hahn To Pursue Shop Center Plan

Ernest W. Hahn "intends to pursue his project in Corte Madera since there is no other alternate site from San Rafael south in the county which is feasible," Corte Madera Town councilmen were told last night.

Two council members, Jana G. Haehl and Joel A. Shawn met in private last week with developer Hahn to discuss his proposed regional shopping center in east Corte Madera and this was the conclusion they drew after the conference.

Some members of the audience of about 25 persons, though, protested what one called the "stigma of secret meetings" and others pointed out that Mrs. Haehl and Shawn had been elected in part because of stands against the center.

Shawn told these people that he believes "we can squeeze everything we can out of Hahn and if that won't fly, I think Hahn will walk away" from the project. Shawn said this was only his view, not something Hahn had told him.

There was talk again last night of putting the matter on the ballot in November and letting the citizens of Corte Madera vote on whether they favor such a shopping center.

Town Atty. Albert Bianchi noted, however, that such a vote would be only advisory to the council.

Some members of the audience said they thought the public had expressed its wishes in the matter when three councilmen who favored the center were recalled last year.

Mrs. Haehl, who repeatedly said she thought councilmen meeting with Hahn in the future ought to be rotated, also said that meetings with the developer were aimed at getting the best proposal possible on the ballot.

She also said that "we must get a land use plan" for the area planned for the shopping center.

Although there was talk of appointing two private citizens to join Mrs. Haehl, Shawn and Town Mgr. Ronald Bartels at any future closed meetings with Hahn, the proposal was dropped in favor of "trusting" the two councilmen and Bartels.

The shopping center has long been bogged down, awaiting an Army Corps of Engineers fill permit. It also has met considerable opposition in Corte Madera and Hahn has reduced the size of the proposal from his original plans.

Also opposed have been plans for a Redevelopment Agency in connection with the center.

Hahn told the two councilmen last week, they said, that redevelopment was "not a necessary ingredient to the completion of the construction of the regional shopping center." However, he said that by taking in additional redevelopment area, the agency could then complete other improvements important to the town's drainage plan.

Hahn also has threatened a law suit if his plans are blocked.

No action was taken by the town council last night. They agreed to wait for the report of a citizens' committee studying financial impact of the proposed center.

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

INTERN — Popstoned action on the summer intern program of the Marin County Youth Commission until the May 1 meeting.

FEES — Adopted raised fees for applications for variances and other procedures connected with construction.

DOGS — Adopted an ordinance calling for the leashing of dogs and licensing of kennels.

TAX — Adopted an ordinance raising the hotel-motel tax from 5 to 6 per cent.

ELEMENT — Adopted the open space element of the city's general plan as approved by the town planning commission.

POLICE — Agreed to cooperate in a Marin County Central Investigations Project, to be sponsored by federal funds.

CLOSED — Went into closed session to discuss salary negotiations with town employees.

Cancer Society Drive Saturday

A door-to-door drive to raise money and distribute cancer treatment literature throughout the county begins Saturday, a spokesman for the American Cancer Society's Marin Unit has announced.

Volunteers will be visiting county residents soliciting donations and distributing leaflets entitled, "If You Don't Know Cancer's Warning Signals, How Do You Know You Haven't Got One?"

The local cancer society chapter hopes to raise $35,000 over the weekend drive, with approximately 3,000 volunteers going door-to-door throughout the county.

Open Space List Given To Council

A shopping list of open space which Mill Valley should either buy or otherwise protect against development was presented to the city council last night.

It included extensive holdings on North Ridge, Kite Hill, in the city marshlands, in the Alto Bowl and in Cascade Canyon.

Planning Director Tom W. Newton, who prepared the list, did not have an estimate of the amount of acreage involved but said that the total assessed valuation of the lands was $566,494.

He cautioned that the county assesses property at only 25 per cent of what the assessor says is its market value, and he said that the assessor's market value of more than $2.2 million is probably far less than the actual worth of the land.

The council agreed to study the list and also asked Newton to turn it over to the city's general plan consultants for analysis.

Previously, the council has discussed joining a county service area involving Larkspur and Corte Madera to buy the North Ridge properties and floating a city bond issue of $500,000 to buy other open properties in the city such as Kite Hill.

Last night councilman Robert E. Capron described another possibility recently proposed by the North Ridge Action Committee which includes representatives of the three cities.

According to Capron, a county service area might be formed with half of its money going to buy sections of North Ridge and the other half split up among participating cities to spend on properties below the ridgeline.

Mill Valley Goes Against Pleas In Phone Building Permit Denial

In spite of pleas from the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce, the city council last night again declined to issue a building permit for new Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. quarters in the city.

Chamber representatives Carol B. Healy and Harold Graves told the council that unless the firm could go ahead with its building plans, it planned to move its Southern Marin offices to Corte Madera.

A few weeks ago, the council had agreed to allow the firm to use a sewage holding tank and portable building for six months on a Lomita Avenue lot where the firm cannot get a sewer connection. The firm had wanted to use a sewage holding tank in connection with a permanent building.

But the council had said it could not issue a permit for the permanent structure until the Regional Water Quality Control Board lifts at least part of its ban on new sewer connections in the city — an action expected in June.

In the meantime the company is being evicted from its present quarters on East Blithedale Avenue.

Councilman Jean S. Barnard, acting mayor in the absence of Robert E. Burton, argued for issuing the building permit. "I think we should make an effort to retain the telephone company. They would be more of a loss to Mill Valley than Mill Valley would be to them."

But councilmen Ivan S. Poutiatine and Robert E. Capron protested. "I think we would be doing the greatest public good by preserving the conditions of the sewer ban and not trying to do an end run around it," said Poutiatine.

He moved that the council drop the issue, and it voted 3-to-1 to do so.

Data Is Sought On Stenibrenner Political Gifts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) has asked a federal court to force the chairman of the American Ship Building Co. to make public his 1972 political contributions.

The SEC charged yesterday that the company concealed from its stockholders knowledge of allegedly illegal donations to President Nixon's campaign.

The SEC said that board chairman George M. Steinbrenner III, who has a controlling interest in the New York Yankees, filed false annual reports beginning in September, 1970, and that attempts to cover up the alleged misleading reports are continuing. He was indicted earlier this month in connection with the donations.

Shockley Booed Off Yale Stage

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — Boisterous Yale University students shouted down the controversial Dr. William B. Shockley last night when he tried to speak on his belief that whites are genetically more intelligent than blacks.

About a third of the 300 students gathered for the debate between Shockley and conservative publisher William Rusher began heckling and catcalling as soon as the pair appeared on stage.

The students chanted "Go Home Racist" and held up signs, one reading: "Is There a Nobel Prize for Genocide."

Shockley is a Nobel Prize-winning physicist whose hobby is genetics. His assertions that blacks are inferior have had him shouted off several other campuses.

BANK BANDITS — Three of four women who took part yesterday during the robbery of a Hibernia Bank branch in San Francisco are shown in these photos taken during the robbery by a bank camera. Though the FBI has declined to make specific identification, the women are believed to be three with past ties to the Symbionese Liberation Army — Patricia Soltysik, Nancy Ling Perry and Camilla Hall. The fourth woman was tentatively identified as Patricia Hearst, who FBI officers said may have been forced to take part in the robbery.

District. The four women — all young and white, wearing dark coats and "waffle-stomper" type boots and carrying semiautomatic rifles —and a man entered the bank with military-like precision, scooped $10,690 from cash drawers after ordering patrons and employes to lie on the floor, then fled through the front door, firing at passers-by.

Two men were seriously wounded, but both were reported in satisfactory condition at a hospital. They were Peter Markoff, 59, who operates a nearby liquor store, and Eugene Brennan, 70, who lives near the scene.

A hidden camera in the bank took several dramatic photographs of the gun-wielding robbers, including one showing the woman identified as Patricia carrying a gun but with another of the robbers appearing to be holding a gun on her.

It was because of this picture, plus apparent efforts by the robbers to go out of their way to identify her as "Tania," that authorities speculated she was forced to take part.

"There's reason to believe she was not a willing partner in the kidnaping or the bank robbery," said U.S. Attorney James Browning.

The three women named in bank robbery warrants were Nancy Ling Perry, Patricia Michelle Soltysik and Camilla Catherine Hall, all believed previously to be members of the tiny SLA which claimed responsibility for the Hearst kidnaping and the slaying last November of Oakland Schools Superintendent Marcus Foster.

None of the men was identified.

The bank robbery was yet another bizarre development in a case which U.S. Attorney Browning calls unprecedented.

"There's never been another case in the annals of legal history where the victim of a kidnaping has turned up in the middle of a robbery," he told newsmen.

The appearance of Miss Hearst on the film allayed fears that she might be dead, for while her voice had been heard on a tape recording as recently as 13 days ago, she had not been seen since the night of Feb. 4 when she was carried screaming from her apartment near the University of California campus in Berkeley.

In the tape received April 3 by two FM radio stations, Miss Hearst called her father a "liar," said she could not return to her former life as a college coed, and said she would remain and fight with the SLA.

Her father, Randolph A. Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner, said he believed she had been brainwashed.

All three of the suspects in yesterday's bank robbery were known to have previous ties to the SLA or to one another.

Nancy Ling Perry, 26, a one-time topless dancer and occasional University of California student who adopted the SLA name "Fahizah," is also wanted for attempted arson in the unsuccessful burning of a house across the bay from San Francisco which was once used as an SLA headquarters. She was living in the house under an assumed name with Russell Little, one of two men imprisoned on murder charges in the Foster slaying.

Patricia Michelle Soltysik, 24, a militant feminist and prison reformist known as "Mizmoon," is believed to have written an outline for the SLA, a romantic vision of a "new world system" accomplished through guerrilla warfare. She was once a part-time janitor at the University of California library and was reported to be a close friend of Donald D. DeFreeze, identified as the "General Field Marshal Cinque" whose voice is on several SLA tape recordings.

Camilla Christine Hall, 29, is an erstwhile artist who struck up a close friendship with Miss Soltysik shortly after arriving in Berkeley from Minnesota.

Union, said he was "skeptical" that San Quentin ever would be closed, but felt it would continue to be used along with the two new prisons.

"I don't know of any state prison that has been dismantled," he added.

Smith blamed the recent rise in prison population on the Reagan administration's new "get tough policy" on paroles, and added: "It would be a grievous error to saddle the next governor with two $70 million white elephants" that would not be needed if parole policies are relaxed.

Salle S. Soladay, a San Rafael attorney who represents prisoners, said the administration proposal put inmates in a dilemma: They don't like conditions at San Quention but they do not want to perpetuate the system by erecting outmoded prisons.

"This locks us into this terrible system for how long — another 100 years?" she said.

"I think it would be better to wait for a new administration and hopefully we can come up with a better prison system."

Animal Controls Will Be Discussed

A series of animal control ordinances will be considered for adoption when the Larkspur City Council meets tomorrow at 8 p.m. in city hall.

The ordinances require that dogs be on a leash, limit households to three dogs or cats, in apartments of 750 square feet to two, and any dwelling to one colony of bees. Keeping dangerous or domestic animals such as chickens, ducks or geese would be forbidden except with a permit issued by the city manager. Keeping a horse in a single-family residential area would be allowed provided there is at least one acre.

NOVATO

Schoonover, Richard L. O'Connell, Daniel P. Donovan and Albert Solnit cast the votes, which retain the option.

"We're going to create a void if we say we're never going to have a regional shopping center," said commissioner Donovan.

In their final vote, commissioners eliminated the proposed wording, "changing conditions have made it very unlikely that Novato will be able to attract a regional shopping center."

Joseph Seminario, chairman of the Environmental Quality Committee, without success asked that the commission postpone action on the Pinheiro Ranch until the matter of the environmental impact report for the proposed Hanna Ranch development is settled.

After changing the regional shopping center designation for Pinheiro Ranch, the commission started on associated revisions since the regional center was a key part of the plan.

They recommended switching the designation of Highway 101 from Grant Avenue to Olive Avenue from office use only to office and retail use and eliminating the parking areas that were to serve a proposed rapid transit system, since an expanded bus system is contemplated instead.

During the public hearing attended by about 25 persons, the commission also voted 4-3, with Edward A. Brooks Jr., George E. McDaniel and Robert Glascock dissenting, to designate 7.5 acres at the northwest corner of San Andreas Drive and San Marin Drive from high density residential to administrative-professional use. Joseph West, president of the San Marin Improvement Association, opposed high density residential development.

Commissioners postponed designation of land use of 50 acres along Black John Slough, south of Gnoss Field, pending action by the Marin County Board of Supervisors on the Gnoss Field master plan and continued hearings on general plan revisions until 8 p.m. April 29 at the Novato Community House.

Hotel's Future Before Council

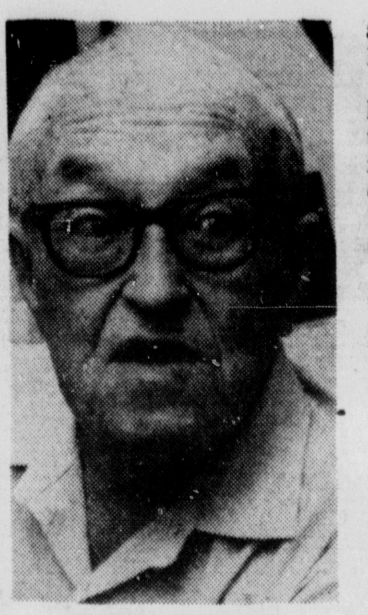
The Sausalito City Council will consider a staff recommendation that the aged Casa Madrona Hotel be vacated as soon as possible when it meets at 8 p.m. today in council chambers on Bridgeway.

Engineering reports say the hotel, weakened by mudslides, is no longer safe.

Councilmen also will consider overturning approval by the community appearances advisory board of a single-family home in the Glen, an area eyed by the city for open space.

OBITUARIES

Clarence H. Pease Dies At 79



CLARENCE PEASE
Author dies

Funeral arrangements for Clarence Howard Pease of Homestead Valley, creator of once widely read adventure stories for teen-agers, were pending today at Russell and Gooch Mortuary in Mill Valley.

Pease, 79, died Sunday at a local hospital following a brief illness.

At the time of his death, he resided at the Homestead Terrace Senior Citizens complex in Homestead Valley.

Pease began writing for young people while serving in an ambulance corps in France during World War I.

After the war, he studied at Stanford University, but took time out to work as a seaman to gather material for his writing. His first successful book, "The Tattooed Man," centered on a voyage he took through the Panama Canal as a wiper in the engine room of an old cargo boat. That novel launched the character Tod Moran as the seafaring hero of many American young people.

Pease continued writing while teaching school in Antioch, Los Altos and San Francisco and then became a full-time novelist in the 1940s and 1950s.

Besides the Tod Moran mysteries, he wrote 10 other books including "Thunderbolt House," about the 1906 San Francisco earthquake — a story which he called his favorite.

He was a native of Stockton and later lived also in Menlo Park, Palo Alto and Livermore.

While in Marin, he was president of the Homestead Terrace Tenants Association. Last summer, he and fellow tenants talked the Mill Valley City Council into rebuilding a sidewalk from their development down to Miller Avenue so that seniors could walk to town more easily.

Survivors include his son, Philip H. Pease of Tiburon who teaches at Redwood High School, and one grandchild.

TAM

ed the board an alternative plan for trimming, announcing that it would save 21 jobs, leaving only 15 at risk. And he declared that those 15 could be saved by trimming an additional $225,000. He told trustees that "it is obvious" such trimming could be done.

Last night, Torrey's new proposal was reviewed by the district board, which heard about a dozen teachers and administrators argue against cutting the programs and jobs in an atmosphere of distress as keen as that provoked by possible loss of 36 places under the first proposal.

His new proposal calls for reducing: district reserves, $100,000; staff development funds, $30,000; maintenance and equipment allowances, $145,000; some personal necessity leaves, $10,000; research and development programs, $2,500; building maintenance, $75,000; Mehaw Mountain and San Andreas school (special programs) budgets, $2,500 each; and miscellaneous savings of $8,300.

His other proposed cuts which would necessitate firing the 15 employees and the amount to be saved are: eliminate adult, summer and continuation school principal (one man who has left the district and has not yet been replaced), $25,000; one school's dean of students, $22,000; instruction supervisor program, $26,000; extra time allotted to department chairmen, $38,400; extra positions created when a seven-period schedule was adopted, $12,000; extra allowance for study halls, $20,000; district office professional library, $800; library processing center, $10,000; reducing carpenters' work week, $10,000; eliminate extra allowance for social studies and English, $60,000.

It also shows a savings of $300,000 from anticipated resignations and year-long leaves.

Torrey cautioned that his plan will balance the budget only if teachers accept the 4 per cent pay hike which would cost the district $300,000, compared to the $600,000 of an 8 per cent raise or the $1,125,000 cost of the 15 per cent increase sought by teachers.

Among the teachers and administrators speaking last night in defense of their programs and jobs was Tamalpais High School psychologist Judith Fabian, whose post was set for elimination in the original proposal. She expanded her speech into a ringing criticism of the district's action in the face of the budget deficit.

She criticized the selection process under which she was employed a year ago as a "misrepresentation of the job as being permanent."

"If this district cannot project one year into the future. . . how can it project change in our society?" she asked. "The last few months I have seen this district in chaos. Members of the district are losing their humanity in the name of economic survival. There is no survival, economically or otherwise, without dignity and humanity."

Her remarks settled sourly with trustees but received prolonged applause from an audience of about 60 persons, mostly teachers.

"You've been doing us a great injustice when you say we're being inhuman," responded Trustee Lotte Schiller.

Trustees met in closed session with Torrey to discuss salary negotiations and adjourned to Saturday at 9 a.m. in the Redwood High School faculty lounge to continue hearings on the original proposal to trim 16 programs.

Action Is Delayed On Open Space

The San Rafael City Council last night postponed action on the conservation and open space element of the city's emerging general plan amid complaints by residents that the document was "weak."

The council asked for revision of the proposal and referred it back to the planning commission, saying it will consider the matter again at 8 p.m. May 6.

Councilmen said maps provided by the document should include only open space areas without mention of proposed "activity centers" or lands eyed for other than open space consideration, asked for clarification of some language and said the plan's "implementation" procedures should be "beefed up".

In addition, the council asked for revision of a policy pledging city funds on a "50-50 basis" to open space assessment districts, saying the city prefers to merely "add funds" to money generated by special districts. The council asked for the revision amid concerns that some neighborhoods are financially unable to form assessment districts but should nevertheless receive a fair share of open space bond monies.

The council's decision to postpone action on the document came after a parade of citizens stood to air concerns about it.

"I don't think I understand where this open space is heading," said former Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner, who asked the council be "charitable" with East San Rafael landowners already being "plucked" by Bay Conservation and Development Commission regulations.

Norman Higby of Peacock Gap, describing himself as acting spokesman of the Home and Business Preservation League, called the open space plan unconstitutional, saying it condemns $20 million worth of land. He urged the matter be placed on the ballot.

The council responded that no land will be acquired by the city for less than fair market value.

Stanley Hellman, president of the East San Rafael Council, took issue with use of the word "clustering" in the plan, saying San Pedro Peninsula residents oppose duplex and triplex units in their neighborhoods.

"My basic impression is it's a very weak document," said Richard Lee of San Rafael, who appeared to sum up the views of many in the audience. He noted the proposal sets aside open space and residential review areas without including any "mechanism to analyze development."

Speakers were told by the council that the document is "tentative" and may be amended after it is adopted. Councilmen noted the city must adopt a plan promptly since state law required such a plan by last December 31.

The open space plan aired last night is a drastically edited version of a proposal prepared by city consultants Duncan and Jones, cut from 53 pages to six pages. The thrust of the proposal edited by the planning commission is substantially the same as the consultants' version, although mnay changes in format have been made.

The open space plan outlines four categories of open space — greenbelt, environmental resource, public health and safety, and public recreation — and sets eight "open space policies."

These policies include coordinating the city open space system with ccunty, regional and state systems; recognizing as a goal that urban development will be compatible with the natural environment; maintaining open spaces that serve as boundaries between neighborhoods and encouraging preservation of hillsides that provide visual backdrops.

San Rafael, air quality yesterday:
Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources but the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

INGELWOOD (UPI) — Ike Turner, of the soul singing combo of Ike and Tina, pleaded innocent yesterday to a charge of using a "blue box," a sophisticated electronic device that allows users to cheat the telephone company out of unlimited long distance calls.

Council Gets Tough On Sign Enforcement

The San Rafael City Council last night adopted a get-tough stance toward enforcement of the municipal sign ordinance.

The panel told City Atty. Fred C. Robbins to "get muscling" on nonconforming signs in the city as amortization or grace periods for compliance with the sign ordinance expire over the next year.

Councilmen, however, told Robbins to withhold action on any nonconforming signs within the immediate Fourth Street redevelopment area, where city redevelopment plans for a pedestrian mall may require even tougher signing regulations.

The council asked Ralph Neal, assistant director of the Redevelopment Agency, to report on May 6 on new signing regulations that may be necessary in the redvelopment area in light of the city redevelopment program.

But councilmen agreed with Mayor C. Paul Bettini that "We shouldn't preclude the city attorney from going on to get those signs away from there (the Fourth Street mall area near Courthouse Square)."

The get-tough policy comes in the wake of demands by merchants that the city delay enforcement of the sign ordinance for six months while a chamber of commerce committee proposes ways to ease the measure.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

HAPPY BIRTHDAY — Gave colleague Fred E. Jensen a birthday cake and a rousing birthday cheer. The veteran councilman turned 74 last Saturday.

COURTHOUSE SQUARE — Said a retaining wall surrounding the development at Courthouse Square will be made of brick, to blend in with brick walkways.

COMMISSION — With Jensen opposed, adopted a measure expanding the parks and recreation commission from five to seven members, and set 8 p.m. April 29 to interview eight applicants for three seats on the agency.

POLICE CHIEF — Said the city's two deputy police chiefs, Thomas Stephenson and Lawrence Kelly, have applied for the chief of police post to be vacated this summer by retiring Chief Joseph J. Brusatori. The applicants will be interviewed at 7:30 p.m. April 29 in city hall.

CANAL — Continued consideration of a $20,000 federal grant for a police patrol boat to 8 p.m. May 6.

CONTRACTS — Awarded these contracts to low bidders: $9,660 to Bay Cities Paving and Grading Inc. for turf grading of Mont Marin open space; $10,130 to Rodding-Cleaning Machines Inc. of Los Angeles for a sewer infiltration control project, and $498 to The Pool Scene of San Anselmo for work on the Terra Linda recreation center pool.

WEST END SCHOOL — Told staff to study possible municipal use of West End School, being closed by the city school system.

FINANCE — Approved $750 for a study by Bartle Wells Associates of the financial relationship between the city and the San Rafael Sanitation District.

CLOSED SESSION — According to City Atty. Fred C. Robbins, discussed in closed session "certain instructions" regarding employee negotiations, an "important matter of litigation," and purchase of property in the redevelopment area. He did not elaborate.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 7:30 p.m., April 29, in city hall.

Registration Is Set For Program

Registration for College for Kids, a College of Marin educational program for elementary and junior high students, will be May 4 from 9 a.m. to noon in Room A of the college center.

Students can enroll in 12 special classes ranging from astronomy to puppetry to creative writing. Most begin the week of June 17 and end in mid-July.

More information on the courses and registration is available through the college's community service office.

League To Elect Officers

New officers will be elected and a budget for the 1974-75 fiscal year adopted by the League of Women Voters of Central Marin in an annual convention at the Holiday in San Rafael on May 22.

Joan Sestak, mayor of Larkspur and a league member, will be the luncheon speaker at 12:30 p.m. The business session will start at 9:15 a.m.

15 Per Cent Hike Asked By Teachers

Teachers in the Ross School District have asked for pay raises for the next school year amounting to nearly 15 per cent in addition to automatic annual salary step increases of about 5 per cent.

Supt. Thomas A. Anderson said the teachers asked for a 4.8 per cent boost to "restore lost income because of the increased cost of living the last two years" and a cost-of-living increase for next year which could top 10 per cent.

He said that teachers asked that the cost-of-living increase be based on federal figures to be released this month.

Anderson said it is uncertain at this time if such raises could cause a deficit in next year's budget. Last month he told trustees that if enrollment continues to decline district revenues could drop from $677,000 this year to $676,000 next year, even with a maximum tax levy. If it does not decline, he said, the maximum operating tax rate of $2.57 per $100 assessed valuation could cover teacher raises without causing a deficit. This year's total tax rate, including bond redemption taxes, is $3.183.

In a budget related matter, trustees last night indicated they will rehire all district teachers next year and replace those retiring or going on leave.

The Ross School District board also:

AIDES — Received a citizens committee report on desirability and feasibility of hiring teacher aides for upper and middle grades. Anderson said the report made no recommendation and trustees instructed him to report May 20 on the desirability of hiring such aides.

ENROLLMENT — Were told by Anderson that enrollment is now at 501 students.

School Trustees To Eye Plans For Own District

Cotati-Rohnert Park School District trustees tonight will discuss secession from the Petaluma High School District and creation of their own unified district.

The meeting is at 8 o'clock in district office in the Rohnert Park Civic Center.

The trustees are considering taking over administration of Rohnert Park Junior High School and Rancho Cotate High School, both now operated by the Petaluma district. The Cotati-Rohnert Park district now includes kindergarten through sixth grade students.

Cotati and Rohnert Park residents want to control their upper schools locally rather than from Petaluma, Supt. James H. Davidson said.

He said he himself favors unification because it would allow more continuity between elementary and secondary curricula and would provide a more "cooperative" approach in general to education in his area.

The Petaluma Board of Education supports the change. "We feel they should take the schools over when they're ready to," Petaluma Supt. Lesley H. Meyer said. "The problem is that some people up there evidently don't think things are moving fast enough."

Meyer said that 38 per cent of the Petaluma High School District's buildings are in Cotati and Rohnert Park, while only 22 per cent of the students are. He said expects student population at the northern schools to continue growing as the towns themselves grow. During the last few years Cotati and Rohnert Park have been the fastest-growing cities in Sonoma County.

Roth Attacks Consumer Unit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — William Matson Roth, campaigning for the Democratic Party's gubernatorial nomination, contends the state Department of Consumer Affairs is ignoring consumers.

Speaking before the San Francisco Consumer Action group yesterday, Roth said the department was "protecting the larger business interests."

Roth said the "Reagan Administration has turned a deaf ear on the needs of the general public" and staffed the department's boards and bureaus with "members of the very businesses and interests they are supposed to regulate."

Third Man In Plane Identified

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Ralph Joseph LaCoursiere, 31, of 41B Pacheco Street, San Rafael, was identified today by the Sonoma County Coroner as the third man who died Sunday in the crash of a light plane along Lakeville Highway in Southern Sonoma County.

Two other San Rafael bachelors died in the crash. They were Arthur Jeffrey, 26, of 83 Woodland Avenue, and Richard M. Smith, 26, of 412 D Street. Smith was a former Independent-Journal photographer.

Coroner Donald Noriel said identification of the bodies was hindered by their total dismemberment when the Piper Cherokee plunged into the forked trunk of a large eucalyptus after colliding with another plane shortly after takeoff from Gnoss Field in Novato.

A coroner's deputy yesterday took fingerprints of the corpses to Sacramento, where the identities of the victims were verified.

Ivan Strossner, a Federal Aviation Administration investigator, flew in from Los Angeles yesterday to examine the splintered remains of the aircraft.

The official cause of the crash had not been revealed by today.

The aircraft was rented from Marin Aviation, Inc., of Novato. It collided with a Beech Baron piloted by Eugene Poole of Walnut Creek. Poole later landed safely at Napa with minor damage to one wing.

ALMANAC

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Today is Tuesday, April 16, the 106th day of 1974 with 259 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

Wilbur Wright, American inventor of the airplane, was born April 16, 1867.

On this day in history:

In 1862, Congress abolished slavery in the District of Columbia.

In 1947, more than 500 persons were killed when a French frigate carrying nitrates exploded at the dock in Texas City, Tex.

In 1968, novelist Edna Ferber died in New York City at the age of 82.

In 1972, Apollo 16 blasted off for the moon with three American astronauts aboard. Also that day, U.S. planes raided the North Vietnam capital of Hanoi.

A thought for the day: American writer Charles Warner said, "The thing generally raised on city land is taxes."

The Delayed Finesse Is Best Chance For The Spade Slam

It is possible that the Census Bureau will instruct its men to count finesses some year. (I've asked them to do so and am waiting patiently for the reply.) The last time I counted the ways you can finesse I wrote three chapters of a book and had to be restrained by main force. One device that the census people will have to watch out for is the delayed finesse.

WHAT NEXT?

South wins the first trick with the ace of hearts and draws two rounds of trumps. How does he proceed?

The garden variety of finesser leads a club to the king and finesses with the jack of clubs. This loses to the queen.

Back comes a heart, and our hero ruffs. He cashes the ace of clubs, hoping for a 3-3 break. No such luck. So he ruffs a club in dummy and tries the diamond finesse.

This also fails, and South can give the opponents 50 points as he complains about his bad luck.

NEEDS THREE CLUBS

The fancy finesser has a trick up his sleeve, a trick worth a thousand points in this case. He needs any three club tricks, not just the first three.

After drawing trumps, South should cash the ace and king of clubs. If the queen drops, there is no further problem.

If the queen is still out, lead a third club from dummy toward the jack. If East has the queen of clubs, South's jack will make a trick. If the suit breaks 3-3, South's last club will be good. Either way, South will be able to cash a club to discard a diamond from dummy.

FINESSE NEEDED

If West has four clubs headed by the queen, South must fall back on trying the diamond finesse. The advantage of the delayed finesse is that you don't lose to a doubleton queen of clubs in the West hand.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠- J 5
♥- K Q J 10 6 3
♦- K J 7
♣- Q 6

What do you say?

ANSWER: This is a borderline hand.

Despite the 13 points the high-card structure is not really good enough for a sound opening bid. Bid one heart with a conservative partner. If you use weak two-bids, bid two hearts.

'WE LOVE YOU TANIA' POSTERS

Posters reading, "We Love You Tania," appear on bulletin boards on the University of California campus in Berkeley. Patricia, 20-year-old daughter of publisher Randolph A. Hearst, was a co-ed at U.C. before her abduction 10 weeks ago. Miss Hearst was identified last night as one of four armed women who took part in the robbery of a San Francisco bank believed to have been staged by the Symbionese Liberation Army. The FBI said it has not been determined if Miss Hearst took part in the robbery of her own free will. See story, page 1.

Two Firms Win Sewer Line Work

Two construction firms from San Francisco and Stockton have been awarded contracts totaling $845,933 for sewer trunkline replacement in San Anselmo by the Ross Valley Sanitary District.

The combined contracts were below the $850,000 engineering estimate for the project, according to Ned J. Ongaro, district manager.

Alf Burtleson Construction Co. of San Francisco submitted a low bid of $326,214 for the downtown portion of the project from Tunstead Avenue to San Rafael Avenue along San Anselmo Avenue. Other bidders were McGuire-Hester of Oakland, $429,282; A. V. DeBrito of Hayward, $509,477; Dark Construction and Equipment Co. of Stockton, $351,609; and Kirkwood-Bly of Santa Rosa, $487,446.

Dark Construction and Equipment Co. was the low bidder on the second part of the project with a bid of $519,799. It will replace trunkline in residential areas on Magnolia Avenue and Kientz Lane. Other bidders were McGuire-Hester, $771,510; A. V. DeBrito, $784,590; Maggiora and Ghilotti Inc. of Corte Madera, $761,238; Kirkwood-Bly, $761,238, and Mission Pipe Co. of Milpitas, $631.777.

In other action last night, the board received a letter from Larkspur requesting that directors meet with city officials to discuss relocation of the district plant on San Quentin Prison lands. The city is receiving development plans for areas surrounding the existing plant on San Quentin Peninsula and would like to include the district site in such planning.

Ongaro said the board cannot relocate its plant until federal funds for the project are received. He said the board will submit plans to the city showing that the existing plant may be expanded at its present site to meet sewer needs until funds for the prison site project are available.

The board adjourned to May 6 at 8 p.m. in the district office.

Bowers Denies Killing Of Ranger Patrick

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Veronza Leon Bowers has denied he killed a Point Reyes National Seashore ranger last Aug. 5 or was at the national park that morning or the previous night.

Bowers, 28, on trial for murder before a federal jury of nine women and three men, took the stand in his own defense yesterday after the government wound up its case. He also denied owning a .9-mm. Spanish Astra handgun, the kind which killed the ranger.

He testified that on the afternoon of Aug. 4, he, his wife and three children drove from their Mill Valley home to visit Bill and Pat Rush in Oakland. He said he remained with the Rushes until about midnight and returned to his home in Mill Valley about 1 a.m.

Bowers said he went to bed and did not leave the house again that night.

Earlier, Alan W. Veale, a codefendant who turned state's evidence, testified Bowers killed ranger Kenneth Patrick who had stopped their car in the park about 5:20 a.m. Aug. 5. He said Jonathan Shoher, 28, Oakland, who was arrested and charged with murder in the case last week, was with them on a deer-poaching foray into the park.

Another witness, Arthur White of Oakland, testified that Bowers had invited his brother, Sidney White, to go deer poaching the night of Aug. 4. He also said Bowers told him three days after the slaying how he allegedly killed the ranger.

Bowers replied "no" when asked whether he went to Point Reyes Aug. 5, invited Sidney White to go or saw Alan Veale that night.

"Did you ever tell Alan Veale that you killed the ranger?" asked defense attorney Doron Weinberg.

"No," replied Bowers.

"Did you kill Kenneth Patrick?"

"No," said Bowers.

Bowers was asked how he established that he went to the Rush home the evening of Aug. 4. He said he knew this would be a "critical issue" and had reconstructed it by talking with people.

He said he had received a speeding ticket, and his driver's license listed the Rushes address as his. He said he got a call from Mrs. Rush saying that it had to be paid on the following Monday and he said he would be over.

He testified he owned the four guns introduced in evidence by the government and bought two of them at a San Jose flea market in the summer of 1972. He acknowledged he got an Astra ammunition clip in one purchase, but said he had no gun which it would fit and had never owned an Astra.

The witness also testified he had been a captain in the Black Panthers in Richmond, but dropped membership in 1970 or 1971 after two years because "of political differences."

Before Bowers took the stand the U.S. District Court judge dismissed the second count of the indictment charging use of firearms to commit a felony.

$5 Million Suit Over Marshland

The owner of 589 acres of marshland in Corte Madera filed a $5 million suit against the Golden Gate Bridge District yesterday.

Domenic Muzzi claimed the district in October declared itself interested in buying the land as a spoils site for its Larkspur ferry terminal, then dragged its feet in acquiring the property.

As a result, the suit said, "a cloud has been imposed on the subject property inhibiting development" and causing its value to be "totally and permanently destroyed".

In addition to the $5 million the suit claims is the value of the acreage, Muzzi is asking 10 per cent interest per year and attorneys' fees.

The suit was filed in Marin Superior Court by San Francisco attorney Herman H. Fitzgerald.

Dean Home Could Go To Weicker

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John W. Dean III, President Nixon's former counsel who is his chief accuser in the Watergate scandals, is negotiating to sell his suburban Virginia home. One of the prospective buyers is Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn.

A spokesman for Weicker, a member of the Senate Watergate committee who was one of Dean's most intensive questioners at hearings last summer, said today the senator is "one of several people" who have expressed interest in buying the row house.

It is located on the Alexandria, Va. waterfront. Weicker has been renting a house on the same block where the Dean home is located.

The Weicker spokesman was responding to a Washington Post report that Dean was selling his home and that Weicker was among those interested. The Post said Dean bought the house in 1972 for $72,000.

Weicker's spokesman said, "He is just one of several people who are interested and the negotiations are just in the talking stages. We have not signed a contract and no dollar figure has been finalized."

The Post said Weicker made an offer "in excess of $100,000."

Dean has pleaded guilty to conspiracy to obstruct justice and defraud the United States in connection with the Watergate coverup and is awaiting sentencing.

A Sentence To Youth Authority

An 18-year-old San Rafael man has been committed to the California Youth Authority for one to 15 years for burglarizing a San Rafael auto sales lot.

Mark Stephen Perry pleaded guilty Friday and was sentenced by Marin Superior Court Judge Charles Read Best.

Dismissed were a second burglary charge which accused Perry of breaking into the Marin Boat House at 117 Third Street, San Rafael, and a charge of possessing marijuana.

Perry pleaded guilty to breaking into a sales office of L. J. Dervin Auto Sales on Jan. 26.

Mitchell Tells Of Vesco Moves

NEW YORK (UPI) — John N. Mitchell testified today that he phoned John Ehrlichman, President Nixon's domestic adviser in November 1972, that financier Robert L. Vesco had made "a crude attempt to use some muscle" on the administration to impede a federal investigation of his manipulations.

The former Nixon attorney general, testifying in his own defense in the federal court Mitchell-Stans trial, said he phoned Ehrlichman after receiving a memorandum from Vesco in which, the government charges, the financier threatened to disclose his cash $200,000 campaign contribution unless the Securities and Exchange Commission was told to drop legal proceedings against Vesco.

"Ehrlichman told me," Mitchell continued, "that there had been an attempt by Donald Nixon Jr., the President's nephew, and somebody else, a Mr. Straub (a Vesco aide), to go to Key Biscayne and talk to people about the SEC investigation, and that Mr. Ehrlichman had run them off and told them he didn't want to hear anything about it."

Mitchell also denied vehemently today that he ever asked John W. Dean, then counsel to President Nixon, to intervene in 1972 in the investigation of financier Robert L. Vesco.

"I couldn't believe the words coming out of his mouth," Mitchell said of Dean's testimony earlier in the Mitchell-Stans criminal conspiracy trial.

Nearing the end of his testimony in his own defense, Mitchell also said he placed no particular interpretation on the statement of a Vesco aide that "I hope this will help" when the aide delivered $200,000 cash to then Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans as a Nixon 1972 campaign contribution.

Mitchell and Stans are charged with trying to impede the SEC investigation in return for that donation and of lying to the grand jury about the matter.

Prosecutor John R. Wing asked Mitchell on cross examination: "Do you recall that Dean testified that some time in mid-July (1972) you asked him to call Bill Casey (SEC chairman) about the Vesco matter?"

That was when Mitchell said no and that he couldn't believe Dean was uttering the words.

"You never talked to John Dean about that?"

Prime Rate Goes Above 10 Per Cent

NEW YORK (UPI) — The prime interest rate went above 10 per cent for the first time yesterday. The First National Bank of Chicago raised the rate to 10.1 per cent, and North Carolina National Bank of Charlotte raised it to 10.25 per cent later in the day.

The previous record for the prime rate, the interest charged for business loans to larger customers of commercial banks, was 10 per cent first set by Wells Fargo Bank of San Francisco in September. The 10 per cent rate became general in the autumn, but then began falling until it hit 8½ per cent a month ago. It has been rising slowly since.

Fluctuations in the prime rate do not automatically result in similar changes in other interest rates. Some large commercial banks operate on a two-tier prime rate system with a lower prime rate for smaller business customers.

Also personal and small loans are to a substantial degree independent of the prime rate because much of the funds for them are drawn from monthly instalment payments rather than from general banking funds.

Tribunal Upholds Firing Over Employee Statements

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A divided Supreme Court today upheld provisions for the firing of federal Civil Service employes when they make public statements which their bosses regard as harmful to the "efficiency of the service."

In its only other decision today, the court ruled that the end of a labor strike does not necessarily mean that all legal issues raised during the strike are moot and out of reach of the courts.

Five separate opinions, including two dissents, were handed down in the Civil Service case. None of the opinions can stand as the court's because none had support from at least five of the justices. But six justices agreed with each other enough to come up with a simple judgment that the Civil Service law is constitutional.

The case arose over dismissal of Wayne Kennedy, a nonprobationary employee of the Chicago branch of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Kennedy charged publicly that his boss had taken a bribe, although he presented no proof. Kennedy was dismissed under the Lloyd-LaFollette Act which provides for employee removal to improve government efficiency.

Kennedy went to court claiming that the notification provisions of the act and his chances to defend himself denied him proper legal procedures. He also said the law limited his free expression.

A three-judge federal court agreed with Kennedy, but the Supreme Court did not.

In the strike case, Justice Harry A. Blackmun, writing for a 5-4 majority, said that a New Jersey company could ask the courts to rule whether welfare benefits for strikers were illegal even though its own strike had ended.

The court did not decide the original issue of strike welfare legality, ruling only that lower courts have jurisdiction in such a case.

Bank Predicts Hike In Housing

NEW YORK (UPI) — First National City Bank predicts stepped-up consumer spending will rescue the housing industry from its current economic doldrums.

Citibank economists yesterday cited improvement in the January and February figures on housing starts as evidence of a recovery in the housing sector.

"The size of the funds that are flowing into the savings banks and the savings and loan associations suggests that a real boom in housing starts could get under way very shortly," said the bank's vice president, Alan Murray.

Fishing Fleet Photos Will Illustrate Book

By BETTY FROST

Photographing the working boats of the West Coast fishing fleet and the people who man them is the current absorbing activity of Sarah C. Toughill of Mill Valley.

Her photographs were on display in Sausalito recently at the Bank of Marin and she will spend part of the summer traveling along the Oregon Coast and the Pacific Northwest to complete her long overview of the fishing industry for a book.

This interest represents a complete turnabout from her 22 year career as production assistant, associate producer, writer and director of documentary films.

"I was always the person behind the person behind the camera," she said, "I just got rid of the person between me and the lens. For so many years I was associated with fine photographers, I was in awe of doing the shooting myself."

Highlights of her career include being the film producer of the Omnibus television program, a long association with Guggenheim Productions in the preparation of documentary news reel footage, and heading her own film research company, Sally Cist Film Service, Inc., in Washington, D.C.

SHE WORKED with many public figures on what she calls "political commercials," and covered the presidential campaign of the late Sen. Robert Kennedy in the midwestern states. She still maintains ties with the Kennedy family and sees Ethel Kennedy occasionally when both are in Washington, D.C.

After the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, Sally Cist Toughill flew to Dallas, Tex., with a film crew from Italy, and worked with them on a documentary film of the tragedy.

She interviewed Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, who discussed water pollution problems on a program called "The Changing Congress."

An incident during that filming had some women's liberation overtones.

"A businessman came in, assumed I was a secretary and asked me to get his office on the phone immediately," she recalled, with a grin. "I might have been annoyed had I not been so fortunate in my jobs. Men often assumed that a woman on the set was a script girl, a secretary or the wife of an official. I had never intended to be a working woman, but opportunities just seemed to happen to me. I usually just acceded to the small requests, to the amusement of my crew."

Mrs. Toughill has two children, Christopher, 17, who attends Tamalpais High School, and Sarah Jean, 14, nicknamed, "Kelly," who attends the Williston-Northampton School in Northampton, Mass. When they were young, the family lived in Washington, D.C., and Mrs. Toughill commuted regularly to New York City, and often took off across the country or went abroad on an assignment.

"I WAS ALWAYS making lists," she remembered," and I usually employed two women to take care of the children — a housekeeper to keep the house running smoothly and a teacher to be with the children in the evenings."

In 1967 she was working on an ecology film series, which took her to Alaska, Hawaii and San Francisco. She was delighted with the Bay Area, and arranged to trade houses with a Sausalito family for the summer of 1968.

"They took over our house and pets in Washington, D.C., and we took over their home and dog in Sausalito," she said.

In 1969 Mrs. Toughill and the children moved to Marin. She had recently been divorced.

"I wanted to come to a quiet place and to live with tranquility. We had enjoyed the informal living in Marin County. I also wanted to be with the children more."

She volunteered her services as a French teacher in the Mill Valley schools, then studied for the teaching credential at Sonoma State College. Last year she taught English and history at the Mill Valley Middle School.

"For a newcomer I am pretty involved with Mill Valley," the teacher said. "Now I know all these neat kids from school, and my parents, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Cist, formerly of Mountain Lakes, N.J., have moved to the Redwoods Retirement Center in Mill Valley."

Mrs. Toughill is a graduate of Mt. Holyoke College in South Hadley, Mass., and studied at the Sorbonne in Paris.

After the book on the Pacific Coast fishing fleet is completed, she may give some thought to writing a book on education.

SARAH TOUGHILL inspects slides she has taken of the West Coast fishing fleet to determine which are suitable for further processing and inclusion in a book about the working fish boats, which she is writing and illustrating with her own photographs.

Role Of The Aged Is Explored In Knowledge Is Power Series

By KAREN PETERSON

"You're old, aren't you?" asked the restless little boy.

"Yes," answered his neighbor in the Marin County Board of Supervisor's chambers at the Marin Civic Center.

"How'd you get that way," he queried.

"By living a long time," she answered.

With that anecdote by speaker Mary Henry of the Young Women's Christian Association Committee of Management, the "To Be Old in America" program began last night at the Knowledge is Power series at the YWCA.

Other speakers at the Women's Center sponsored program on the promises and fortunes of age were Vera Schultz of the County Commission on Aging; Helen Callbeck of the county Department of Public Social Services; Leisel Neheimer, director of Pooh Corner Playschool and Maureen Ver Mehr, publicity director of Emeritus College.

"IT'S MUCH better to be old in Marin County today than it was 20 years ago," said Mrs. Schultz who, while serving her second term on the board of supervisors, initiated the first county center for older persons in a San Rafael home on Fourth Street.

Twenty years ago, she said, there was no place for the older adult to go to in Marin except perhaps "sitting on the lawn in front of the old courthouse." And at that time, there were no public funds from city or county government to start any recreational or social activities, she said.

Today, she said, the supervisors offer a grant to every town, if they match the funds, to support programs for senior citizens, and under the federally enacted Older Americans Act, the county allocates funds to the Senior Coordinating Council which, she says, someday hopes to have its own permanent building.

Mrs. Schultz also pointed to the 300 units of "very pleasant housing" for retired persons in Novato, Santa Venetia, Mill Valley and Alto. But, she added, more low income housing is needed for a waiting list that numbers 3,000.

"The poor are still second class citizens, I believe, when it comes to medical care. But it's still a whale of a lot better than it was 20 years ago," said Mrs. Callbeck, adding there's a "sad tendency for people to resist (going to the convalescent hospital) when it is needed."

She also said the medical profession is "getting interested in geriatrics" and that medical care is now beginning to focus on "improvement as well as maintenance."

"I'll never accept the role of second class citizen," said Mrs. Henry. "There's a saying that it is the squeaky wheel which gets the grease. If you want something, speak up."

Even with the passage of the age discrimination bill, Mrs. Henry warned not to be reticent when you want to get something done or clarified.

"If women are going to fight for enforcement of the law, (against discrimination), then older people should make a fight," she said.

Emeritus College at the College of Marin, is a "unique" program for adults 55 and over who want to keep learning, said Mrs. Ver Mehr. Emeritus, which now has a membership of 850, offers classes, forums and get togethers which are directed to what the students themselves are interest in, she explained.

"The geriatrics wards are full of people who shouldn't be there," Mrs. Ver Mehr said. "Through mental health you keep physical health."

Workshops Aimed To Aid Consumer

SALLY TIRADO
Leads consumer workshops

Sally Tirado of San Rafael will lead consumer information workshops beginning this week at two locations in Marin. Workshops will be held every Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. at La Familia Community Center, 922 Irwin Street in San Rafael and every Friday at 2:30 p.m. at the Human Needs Center, 1523 South Novato Boulevard in Novato.

The workshops, conducted in both English and Spanish, will continued weekly through June 25 and are sponsored by the Marin Community College District.

Mrs. Tirado is a graduate student in home economics at California State University, San Francisco. She and her husband have worked as volunteers at La Familia Center.

The workshops will stress economical means of eating highly nutritional foods, ideas for decorating homes without spending considerable money, where and how to shop for clothing and how to protect people as consumers.

Transportation to the workshops and child care arrangements can be made by calling La Familia Center.

Jock Hop Is Planned As Fund-Raiser Event

Past fund-raising efforts by members of the Sunny Hills Junior Auxiliary — fashion show luncheons, balls, luaus and horse shows — have had a good measure of financial success but are not the fresh approach to fund raising the group wanted to pursue for its annual spring event.

Members decided Marin needed something new and came up with the idea of a sport oriented party. For a place to hold it that was different they decided on an airplane hangar.

The ideas have led to the first annual Jock Hop, which will be held Saturday, beginning at 6:30 p.m., in Spectrum Air's Cessna hangar at Gnoss Field in Novato.

Betsy Cruwys of San Rafael, the chairman, was surprised by the interest shown by the member's husbands and their involvement, which began with her own husband, Roger, a landscape architect and graphic artist.

Cruwys designed the invitation and illustrated it with a "super jock," an out of shape man draped with skis, fishing pole, tennis racket, golf clubs and wearing a yachting cap and cleats with one foot propped on a football. He is being watched by a quizzical duck.

He took "Super Jock" a bit further and had T-shirts decorated that will be given as prizes at the party.

The next man to get into the act is Mrs. Cruwys' brother, Barry Larsen of Mill Valley, whose wife, Helen, is also a member of the auxiliary.

Larsen designed a model of a World War I biplane that will hang from the center of the hangar during the party. Husbands of the members have spent the past four weekends assembling the eight-foot long model, which has a nine-foot wing span.

"The husbands have gotten involved, and now they understand the work and organization that goes into planning a party," said Carolyn Hoffman of San Rafael, publicity chairman for the Jock Hop. "They have volunteered to help at the party, are arranging for the games and offered to use their business contacts to get wine and printing donated."

One of the husbands arranged for Mrs. Cruwys to appear last Sunday at 8:30 a.m. on the

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

'Politics' A Dirty Word Among The Young, Teacher Finds Out

DEAR RAP:

After reading a nationwide student survey which revealed that 88 per cent of high schoolers think public officials are dishonest in some way, I tried an informal survey in my classes.

I asked how many students wanted to make politics their careers? Not one said, "Yes."

To "Why not?" they answered, "Too dirty," "You can't stay honest," "You can't accomplish anything for the red tape," "Whatever you say is used against you. . ."

My question is, if idealistic young people are universally turning away from politics, who's to run the country in generations to come? — TEACHER

DEAR TEACHER:

And my answer is, "Look back!"

When you were in high school, did you or any of your peers consider politics as a career? Yet your generation and mine produced a bumper crop of politicians, good and bad.

It's true, teen-agers rate public officials very low, but then those in power have always been bad-mouthed: Long before Watergate, a nationwide poll indicated Americans trusted their "leaders" scarcely more than they trusted used car salesmen — which was precious little! But they still turn out to vote.

Likewise, some of these idealistic young people, who swear they would never get involved in government, may realize later on that government needs them. It's pretty hard projecting yourself in the role of a congressman or senator when you're under 18. — HELEN

TEACHER:

Maybe your use of the word "politics" turned students off. Had you asked, "How many would like careers in government?" you might have seen quite a few "yes" votes. But mention "politics" and immediately people think of wheeling and dealing, and unkept promises, and slick operators who'd do anything for a vote. It's almost as dirty a word as "Berkeley student" was back in the rioting '60s, and with as little reason, for only a few — those who get the publicity — deserve the mud. (And perhaps they don't deserve all the mud they're getting.)

Since we can't upgrade the image, could we eliminate the name? I know several in my age group who might run for public office, but they'd highly resent being called "politicians." — SUE

DEAR RAP:

Would it be okay to send a friend I don't know very well a sympathy card? He's had a terrible run of luck.

Last week at school he got busted, just because he had two joints in his pocket. He was lucky in one way, because he was holding lids, and they didn't find those.

His parents found his stash of pipes and broke them all, and he just got out of a cast after being in a motorcycle accident last year.

He's a good dude, but like about half the school, he smokes pot. Never uses anything else. Seems like he's jinxed, and so, how about a sympathy card from me? — SORRY FOR HIM

DEAR SFH:

Even though this dude brings a lot of his jinxes on himself there's no harm in sending him a sympathy note. — SUE

DEAR SORRY:

How about saying it in person? Let him know you're sorry he's in trouble, but don't encourage him to break the law again. That is, use sense with your sympathy. Okay? — HELEN

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902., if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.

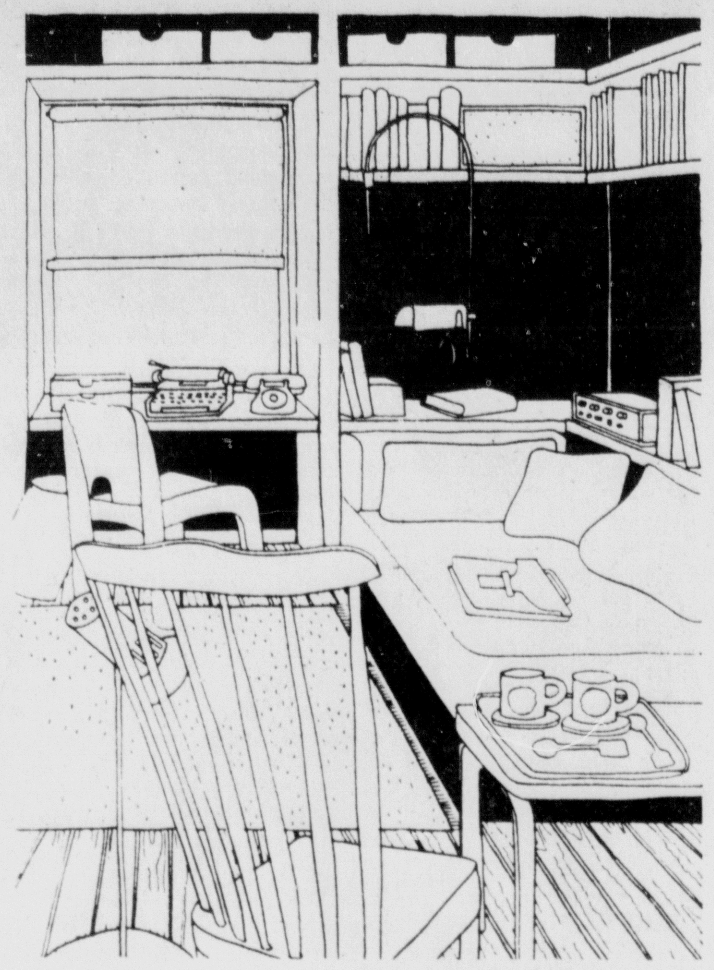
Many Of Today's Singles Have One Room For A Pad

By EMILY MALINO
Distributed by United Feature Syndicate



For singles today, a room must often take the place of an entire pad. More and more singles live at home with parents, extending the life of the nuclear family. Still more share a house or an apartment with others.

Whether it's with family or with friends, the room you call your own must combine all the comforts of home in what might often turn out to be a very skimpy space.

Of course, some singles luck out. I saw a home recently where a spacious attic was turned over to a young graduate student who chose to return to the family fold after college; the rent is free and the food is better.

He and his family transformed this upstairs space into a splendid scene with carpeting, shelving, a built-in bed and many kinds of lighting to brighten the darker corners.

Similarly, a young woman with a first job shared a house with a group of friends and her room, complete with water bed and thick flokati rug, was converted from plain old space to gorgeous glamor by painting the walls a rich rosy, rusty red.

THE MOST important consideration in planning a pad at home is to provide a space for everything. In a tiny room I planned for a law student living with his folks, I had to recycle every inch of the room this recent grown-up had used as a child.

I used a built-in look, to tidy the space as well as make it more functional. Actually, the bed is separate; it is simply a boxspring on a wheeled platform that can be rolled away from the wall for easier bed-making. A thick shelf frames the bed on two sides, making handy storage for books and a stereo, as well as a resting place for pillows and one's head.

The same kind of framing is used around the window. Over the window it becomes still another shelf which holds all the bits and pieces people collect; these and out-of-season clothes are stored in handy plastic bins; a lower parallel shelf underneath which stores more books, speakers and records, also supports a clamp lamp that can swing from bed to desk as the need arises.

THE DESK is actually just another shelf, supported by the vertical frame on either side of the window. It is a deep, thick shelf strong enough for a typewriter, a telephone and the heavy books that are a constant companion to any student of law. This vertical frame also becomes the edges of a tailored, neat window shade of a textured linen-like shade cloth.

A thick rung, many pillows, a comfortable chair and a place to serve coffee make this room a pad of its own, an easy way to live at home and like it.

Channel 4 show "Community Circle" with Terry Lowry.

The husbands who did not delight in dressing up for formal balls have shown enthusiasm for the casual attire and chosen costumes such as rodeo riders, roller derby skaters, duck hunters, tennis players, golfers or fishermen.

The party will include dinner, dancing to music from the '50s and 60's and an auction. Auctioneer Dave Valentine will offer sports-oriented prizes, including harem dancer, Nadia, who will entertain at the party.

Even with the husbands' cooperation there is plenty of work for the members to do, Mrs. Cruwys said, and the rest of the committee includes Sue Merriman of Ross and Marianne Caulfield of Greenbrae, who have arranged to sports games; Charie Morrison of Belvedere and Ann Colletto of Tiburon, food; Debra Dooley of Mill Valley, auction; Pat Gustafson of Greenbrae and Barbara Perkins of San Rafael, decorations; Irene Scully of Tiburon and Jan Logan of San Rafael, reservations.

HAWAII — Two young Figian children from the Polynesian Cultural Center in Honolulu are featured in the new travel adventure film "Hawaii," which will be shown in Marin April 29.

Humorist Sets Travel Picture In Hawaii

Humorist Stan Midgley will appear in person to narrate his new feature-length, color travel-adventure film "Hawaii" which will be shown as part of the Explorama series at 8:15 p.m. April 29 at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

The film, in production for more than two years, features Midgley's bicycle tour of the Hawaiian Islands.

Highlights include the major tourist attractions of Hawaii as well as little known and seldom photographed areas of the islands. The film was shot on Maui, Kauai, Hawaii, Molokai, Oahu and Lanai.

Midgley, a graduate of Princeton University, worked as a chemist in the pharmaceutical industry for ten years. He became well known, not as a chemist, but because he rode his bicycle 48 miles each day to work.

He also became known for his home movies of his vacation bicycle tours and in 1946 he entered a movie that won a nationwide contest.

Since then, Midgley has made his living by producing "chucklelogues," humorous travel films.

Air Force Lobby Recruiting Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wisconsin Congressman Les Aspin has accused the Air Force of trying to promote membership in a private organization that supports Air Force appropriations measures in Congress.

The liberal Democrat said officers at the Aerospace Defense Command in Colorado were ordered by their commander to recruit members for the Air Force Association.

The association, composed of some 120,000 current or former Air Force officers, enlisted men and veterans, has a budget of around $2 million, Aspin said.

Bar Plans Mock Trials On Law Day

Mock trials in nine Marin schools and an essay contest will highlight Law Day observances sponsored by the Marin County Bar Association during the week of April 29.

Three attorneys have been assigned to each school to stage the mock trial of the People vs. Harry Holding. Holding is a fictitious student at "Terra Marin High School" who was arrested for marijuana possession by officer Lon Garm, according to Law Day chairman Ronald K. Clausen.

The bar association will provide a set of facts leading up to Holding's arrest and students and faculty will then participate in his trial. Although final dates have not been set, mock trials will be held at Kent Junior High School and San Rafael, Redwood, Tamalpais, Sir Francis Drake, Novato, San Marin, Terra Linda and Marin Catholic high schools.

The association is also sponsoring an "open letter" contest in the eight high schools and Tomales High School. Students will write essays based on hypothetical situations including curfew violation, streaking, communal living, search and seizure, and zoning violation.

Outstanding essayist in each school will receive $15 from the association and an overall grand prize winner will be selected and receive an additional $15.

The winners will also be invited to a special bar association luncheon to be held on Law Day, May 1.

Actor Pleads To Tax Charge

LOS ANGELES (UPI)— Actor and comedian Richard Pryor will be sentenced in federal court May 6 on a charge of failure to file an income tax return for the year 1967.

Pryor, who costarred with Diana Ross in "Lady Sings the Blues," had originally pleaded innocent to four counts of failing to file tax returns for the four years 1967 through 1970, a period during which he made $250,000 the Internal Revenue Service charged. Following plea bargaining, he appeared before U.S. District Judge Manuel Real yesterday and changed his plea to guilty on one count.

Charges for the other three years are expected to be dropped when Pryor is sentenced. He could receive up to one year in prison and a $10,000 fine.

'Rough An' Ready' Is 1974 Mountain Play

"Rough An' Ready" by Dan Totheroh will revive the Mountain Play this year high on the slopes of Mount Tamalpais.

It will be the 55th play to be presented and the fifth time that play will be the annual presentation of the Mountain Play Association. The play will be staged at 2 p.m., May 5, 11 and 12.

The comedy, as related by Bret Harte, revolves around H. P. T. Comstock, whose name is associated with the Comstock Lode, a Mormon and his seven wives and an itinerant theatrical troup.

Totheroh also is the author of "Tamalpa," which has become the official play of the association, and "Flamenca," also written for the Mountain Play.

This presentation of Totheroh's play is a revival of the Mountain Play which was not presented last year because of financial difficulties. "Rough an' Ready" was presented in 1972, but last year there was a picnic and entertainment instead of a play.

The annual event was conceived when Dad O'Rourke, "The Old Man of the Mountain," John C. Catlin, lawyer and outdoorsman, and Garnet Holme, director, conceived the play being presented in the natural amphitheater on Mount Tamalpais.

"Abraham and Isacc," an old morality play, was the first production, presented in 1913 in the natural amphitheater.

Audiences for the early plays came on the Mount Tamalpais Railroad, "the crookedest railroad in the world," on horseback, by stage, but mainly on foot.

It became a Bay Area tradition to hike up the mountain to see the play. Audiences increased and the play was a financial success.

Early audiences had to sit on the steep slope as the actors performed on the natural stage. It was not until 1937 that the rocks were put in place forming the amphitheater as it is now known.

In 1930 the railroad went broke and left the play without its best method of easy transportation. However this only spurred the age of road building and more and more people started driving up to the play.

The play has had three interruptions in its continuous performance. In 1924 the area was closed because of an epidemic of hoof and mouth disease. From 1942 through 1945, the Army had control of the area, forcing the cancellation of the play. Then, last year, when it was dropped for one year because of finances.

Hormone Aimed At Higher I.Q.

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — A team of South African doctors have injected an expectant mother with experimental hormones which they say could double the I.Q. of babies and revolutionize the science of obstetrics.

"The hormone helps placenta efficiency in the last four weeks of pregnancy when the baby's brain cells develop," said Dr. Peter Baillie, head of the obstetrics department at Cape Town's Groote Schuur hospital where Dr. Christiaan Barnard pioneered heart transplants.

The hormone —human chronionic gonadtrophin (HCG) —in the past has been used to determine pregnancy and in slimming experiments.

$400,000 In Reserve Funds Used

Marin County Supervisors have tapped the county's "contingency reserve" account for about $400,000 so far this fiscal year, Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell reported yesterday.

He said the account, which is recharged periodically with unused funds from other accounts, currently stands at about $34,000. Main source of funds comes from the payroll account for positions that have been left vacant.

The contingency reserve is used by supervisors to finance items which were not included in the county budget.

Major expenditures include $30,000 for overtime in the sheriff's department, $15,000 for an appraisal of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way, $10,000 for a data processing study, $15,000 for a change order to the fairgrounds construction, $36,500 to the department of corrections.

Also, $39,100 for increased cost of gasoline, $15,200 for increased postage, $30,000 for increased cost of food at the jail, $21,000 for a special study by the grand jury, $15,000 for the Family Tree day care center, and $18,000 for housing of prisoners in Sonoma County.

The remaining funds were spent in amounts less than $10,000 according to county records.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Assembly Approves Signature Secrecy

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill designed to insure the secrecy of signatures on initiative or referendum petitions was passed yesterday by the Assembly on a 46-25 vote and sent to the Senate.

Assemblyman Jack R. Fenton, D-Montecello, said his bill (AB2690) would require voter registrars to destroy all records of petition signatures eight months after the election on the measure.

Currently, such petition records are public documents, and several assemblymen argued there was no reason to make them secret. If someone believes strongly enough about an issue to sign a petition, they said, there was no reason why this fact should be kept secret.

SEX BARRIERS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation aimed at eliminating sex barriers from California education requirements has won narrow approval from the Assembly.

The bill (SB1466) by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, approved yesterday on a 41-19 vote, the minimum needed, and returned to the Senate for concurrence in amendments.

Under the measure, if students of one sex were required to take certain classes in public schools, the same requirement would be imposed on students of the other sex.

UTILITY ADS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Utility firms would receive a financial incentive to run energy-conservation advertisements under a bill which has won unanimous passage from the Assembly.

The Senate-passed measure (SB371) by Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, cleared the Assembly yesterday on a 67-0 with no debate and was returned to the Senate for concurrence in amendments.

The bill would prohibit any advertisements by a municipal utility which promote greater energy consumption.

Indian Village In Mill Valley Reveals Story Of Long Ago

ARROWHEAD — A Miwok arrowhead glitters darkly in its finder's hand, the play of light and shadow revealing how it was shaped and sharpened.

Scientist Says 1,500 Sites Ruined Each Year

By REBECCA LARSEN

A piece of broken vertebrae from a baby's body, a shiny black arrowhead, polished bits of shell.

These are the sorts of archeological fragments being sifted this week from the earth of what was once an Indian Village in what is now Mill Valley.

The site seems unlikely — behind Goodman's hardware store and the Shelter Bay apartments and just a few hundred yards from Highway 101.

In a few months, Interfaith Housing of Mill Valley plans to build the Shelter Hill moderate income housing project at the site. The housing foundation and the county supervisors have appropriated about $4,500 for the dig so that as much information as possible can be gleaned from the spot before the bulldozers arrive.

Running the expedition are Dr. Michael Moratto of San Francisco State University and about 50 volunteers.

First, they peel away thin layers of earth from sections about a yard square. Then they sift the soil through large strainer boxes.

"From what we've found so far, I'd say that these people lived here from about 400 A.D. to 1400 A.D., about 1,000 years," said Moratto, who has been camping at the site this week.

The biggest finds so far are the burial sites of an infant and of an adult.

The soils with which the volunteers are working looks like charcoal dust, the kind suburbanites find at the bottom of their barbecues after grilling a steak. It's a sharp contrast with the brown and yellow clay on the rest of the hill.

"That's because of their fires," said Moratto.

Bits of charcoal found will be radiocarbon dated in laboratories on the East Coast.

Other artifacts will go with Moratto to San Francisco State where he will spend a month or two studying them. "For every man day in the field, I spend 10 to 12 in the library."

Then they will be sent to the Novato Prehistory Museum for permanent keeping.

"What can an archeologist learn from one more Indian village?

To Moratto, that's an absurd layman's question.

"What if we had only one copy of the Bible, one Torah, one U.S. Constitution? To lose any one of them would be a tremendous blow. Each one of these villages is unique. They're a nonrenewable cultural resource. It's not like a forest. You can't cut it down and then reseed it."

About 1,500 such sites are being ravaged every year through development in California, he said.

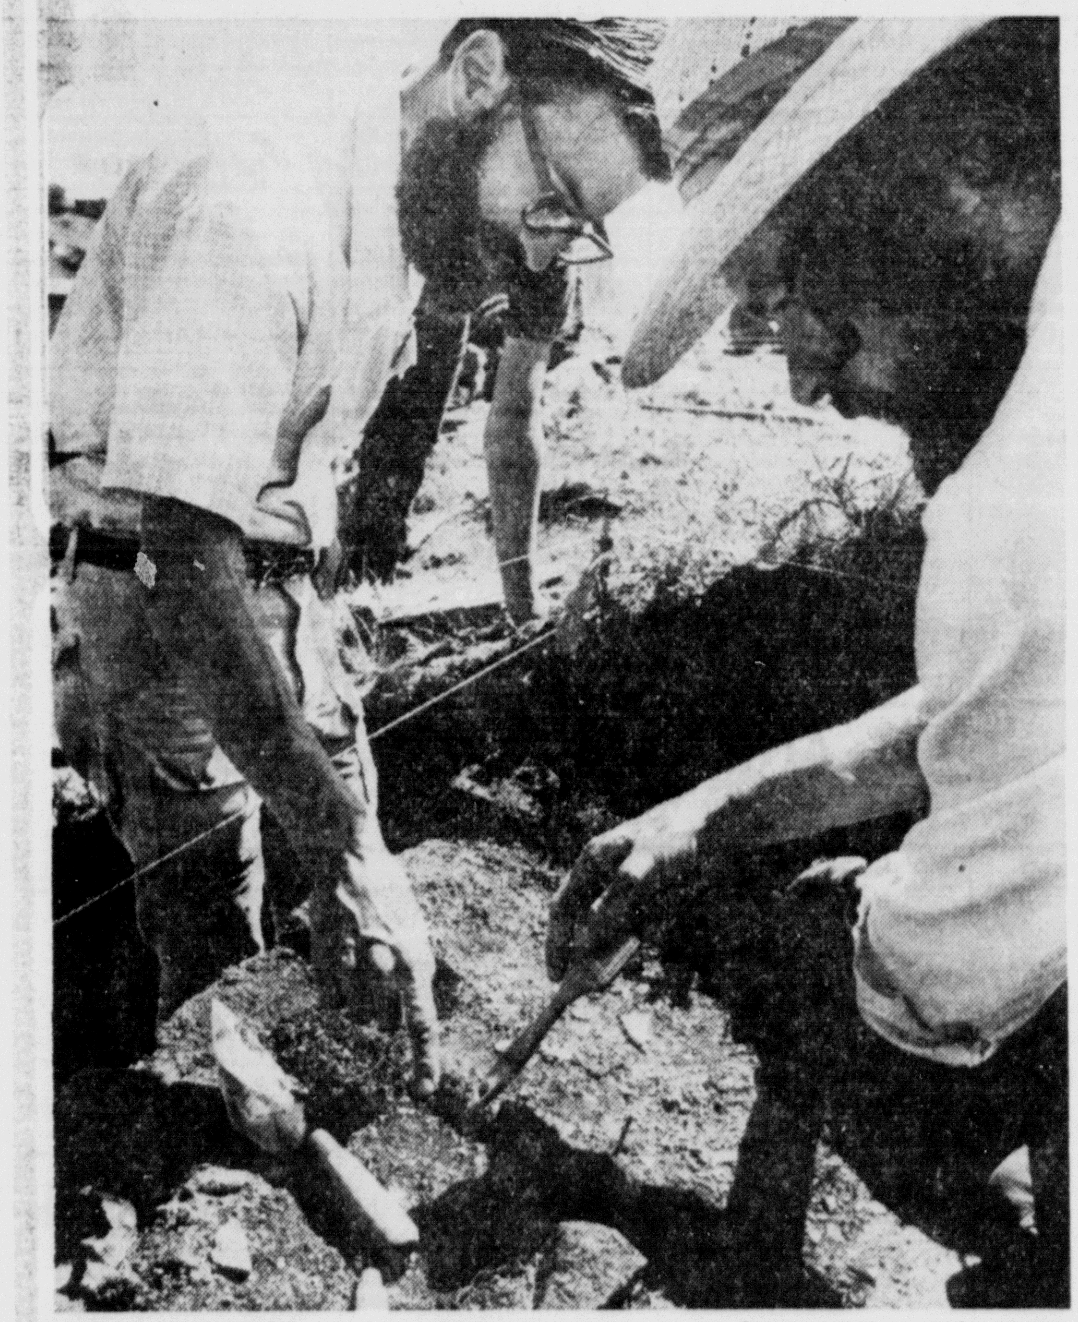
If Moratto had his way, the village site would remain untouched, certainly not by developers and not even by archeologists.

He and other students of Indian culture are working on getting state legislation to preserve such sites as a kind of bank for future archeologists.

"We're trying to work out schemes where development could proceed while we preserve these sites. For example, there's no reason why you couldn't build a golf course or put a lawn over this village.

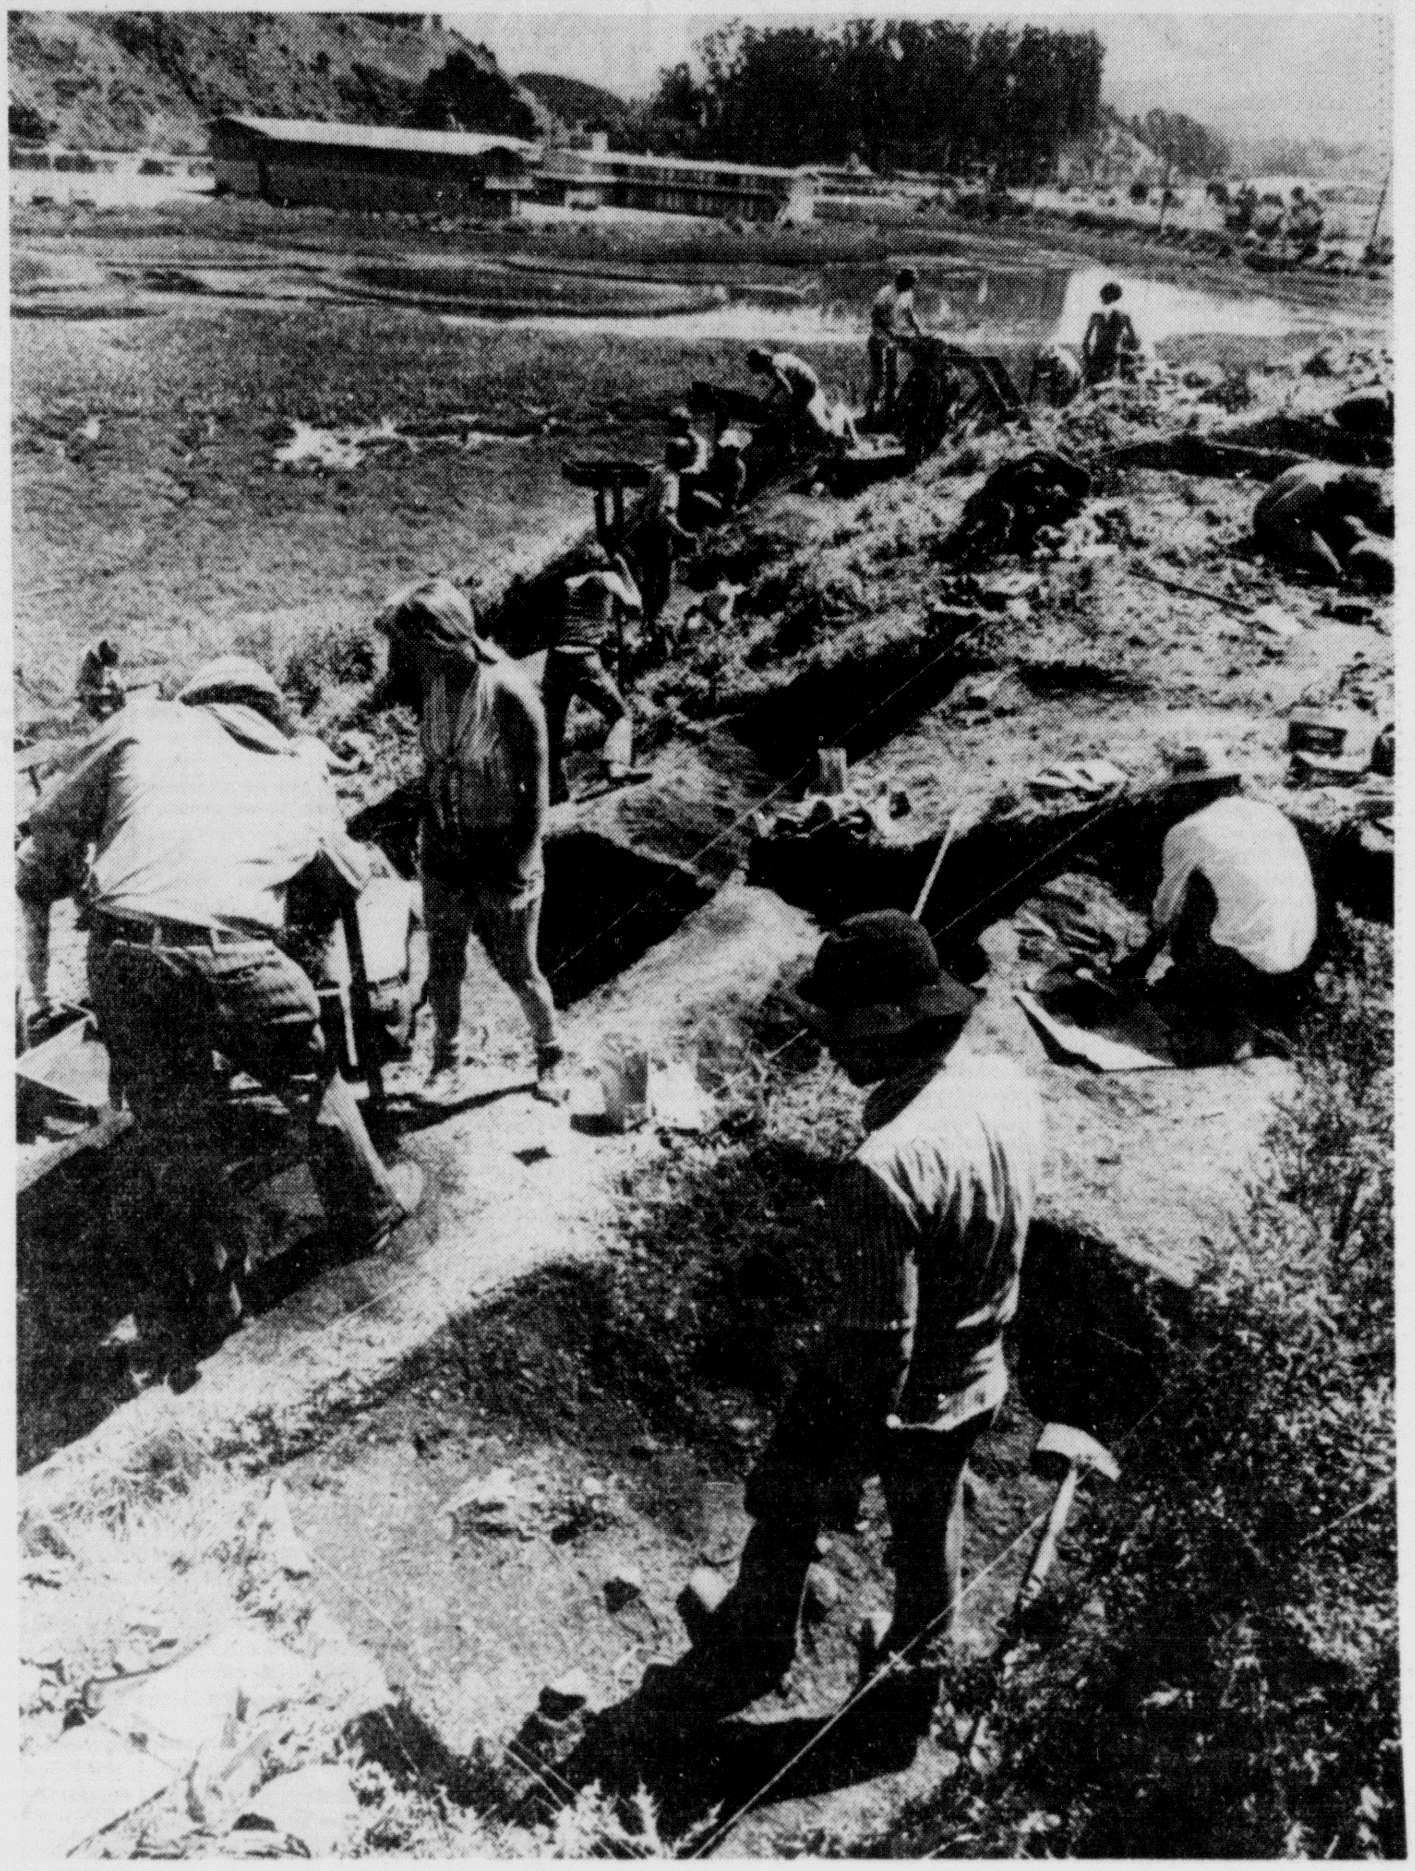
"Future technological inventions could make it possible to glean far more material out of such digs than is now the case.

"From 1900 to 1949 in our digs, everyone used to throw away the charcoal. What good is it, they thought. It's useless. Then in 1949 someone developed radiocarbon dating. And now it's the charcoal that we're very interested in."



THE DIGGERS — Dr. Michael Moratto of San Francisco State University and volunteer Paul Hood excavate the burial site of a Miwok child who may have lived anywhere from 1,500 to 500 years ago on the Mill Valley flood plain below Shelter Hill. Exactly how long ago will be determined by radiocarbon dating.

(Photos by Alfred M. Arn)



THE DIG — Volunteer archeologists sift carefully through the designated portions of an ancient Miwok site within a stone's throw of bustling Highway 101. The work was under way this week in an effort to gain as much knowledge of the past as possible before the remnants of that culture are obliterated for future housing.

Crowe Must Face Trial For Assault

Fairfax Town Administrator Robert Eyre Crowe was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Following a preliminary hearing in municipal court, Judge Robert A. Smallman ruled there is enough evidence to hold Crowe, 37.

He is charged with using an ax to attack 19-year-old Kenneth M. Davidson during a post election fracas in a Fairfax street March 6.

Davidson testified during the preliminary hearing, and the blood-stained clothing he wore the night of the fight was introduced as evidence.

Judge Smallman ordered Crowe to appear April 29 in superior court.

Fairfax police said the fight between Crowe and Davidson apparently erupted in the early morning hours after a town council election in which anti-Crowe candidates won.

Davidson has been charged with disturbing the peace and is slated to have a pretrial conference tomorrow in municipal court.

Volunteers For Survey Wanted

The Mill Valley citizens' committee studying cable television is calling for volunteers to help conduct a telephone survey of local subscribers and to do research on local programming and other aspects of cable TV.

The survey will seek citizen views on educational, local government and general interest programming.

The seven-member committee, appointed by the city council in January, will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday in council chambers. Further information may be obtained by contacting chairman Dusan Mills at city hall.

State Receives $811,174 In Unclaimed Funds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state controller's office received unclaimed funds from estates and abandoned property valued at $811,174 during the first three months of this year.

Controller Houston Flournoy yesterday said the total included $717,357 in unclaimed funds from 584 estates and 600 items of abandoned property valued at $93,817.

As of March 31, the controller's Unclaimed Property Office was custodian for an accumulation of $32.7 million—$8.5 million from 10,101 estates and 316,160 items of abandoned property valued at $24.2 million.

Health Fair Date

The Petaluma Health Fair at the Washington Square Shopping Center will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. April 27 rather than Wednesday, as was incorectly reported in Saturday's Independent-Journal.

Resumed Mutual Aid Fire Service Asked

Two Marin County supervisors recommended yesterday that San Rafael reinstate mutual aid fire service with the county, pending the outcome of, their studies on increasing fire protection to unincorporated areas.

The recommendation, made by supervisors Gary T. Giacomini and Robert A. Roumiguiere, is contained in a memorandum to other supervisors, recommending a formal request be forwarded to the city.

Since November, the city has refused to provide "first call" fire response to unincorporated areas and will respond only after a county fire truck and a two-man crew arrive at the scene and request the city's help.

The city, in refusing to give "first call" service, said if the county wants the service they should pay for it and not expect city taxpayers to carry the added costs.

Giacomini and Roumiguiere, who make up the board's fire protection committee, said the number of "first call" responses provided by the city during the last few years appears equal to the number provided by the county to the city.

The supervisors said they are developing several proposals for improved fire service to be submitted to voters in the unincorporated areas around San Rafael — such as Santa Venetia, California Park, Bret Harte, Bayside Acres and Country Club.

"To develop proper solutions to problems that have apparently existed for years takes a great deal of time," they wrote. "The tax-paying citizens who live in the city and its surrounding unincorporated areas should not have to live in fear of their lives and/or loss of their properties during this time."

TERMITES INVADING MARIN HOMES NOW.

Every homeowner in Marin County should be on the alert this month for a cloud of winged ant-like insects anywhere around his home. Don't assume that they are ants. It may be a swarm of termites!

In the early spring and fall, all three types of termites found in Marin send out swarms of flying "kings" and "queens" to start new nests. Swarming is heavy and noticeable on a sunny day following rain, but continues to some degree from late February through late October.

Termite colonies send out swarms only after they've been established for three years or more. The flying reproductives can go only a short distance, seldom more than 100 feet unless helped by winds. So if you see a cloud of swarmers or their discarded wings, there's a termite nest nearby.

The swarmers can act as an early-warning system for you. The nest is still fairly small when the first swarms are sent out. If you detect an early swarm, therefore, you've avoided the worst damage. Later, the nests grow to 250,000 termites or more.

The three types of termites in Marin have somewhat different habits for nesting and swarming. But all three types have infested homes in every part of Marin. And contrary to popular belief, they can infest both new and old homes. So every Marin homeowner should be alert this month.

If you see a swarm or discarded wings, call Hinkley & Gordon for a complete Structural Pest Control Inspection. The cost of a Hinkley & Gordon inspection, the most thorough in Marin County, costs just $50 for the average home.

This inspection isn't just a gimmick to sell you a "termite job." It's the best way to avoid one.

Train Fighting Cuts In Funding

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Environmental Protection Agency chief Russell E. Train says he is fighting pressure from the White House to cut back federal grants to states enforcing federal anti-pollution programs.

Train said the Office of Management and Budget has informed him that Nixon wants to phase out money earmarked for states monitoring and enforcing pollution standards.

"I think it would be a great mistake to start cutting back on funding," Train said. I think the funding for the time being should be maintained or even increased."

He was interviewed on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation."

TELEVISION REVIEW

Shepherd Humor Goes National

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — Radio humor, says Jean Shepherd, is an art "rarer than a five-winged butterfly." He should know. He's been at the art here since 1958. This year, he was set loose nationally on NBC radio.

For those who've never heard him, Shepherd isn't your usual Manhattan wiseguy. He's more of a free assocation cross between Mark Twain and Herb Shriner.

It's a pity he's only heard a few minutes on NBC's "Emphasis" on weekdays and on "Monitor" weekends. He has an uncanny ability to bring genuine Americana into verbal bas-relief.

Born in Chicago, he was raised in a northern Indiana steel mill town he never identifies, apparently for fear the Chamber of Commerce will someday hire a hit man to say hello with a load of hot slag.

Although his NBC effort and most of his local radio work concern modern persons, themes and events, much of Shepherd's fame stems from his spoken and written observations about youth in a rotting town.

He spins magnificent yarns about crappie fishing in fetid ponds, men who drink lots of boilermakers, life at Warren G. Harding School and mythical boyhood pals like Schwartz, Flick, Broder and Cosnowski.

He is considered a master of blue-collar nostalgia. He also considers this honor a bum rap.

"I'm not a reminiscer," he groused. "I'm no more of a reminiscer than Bill Cosby. No, I'm serious. I've often wondered why, when Cosby talks about his mythical boyhood friends, he's never called nostalgia."

Shepherd, who does a 45-minute show on a local station here each weeknight, finds his audience a bit weird. They usually seem to recall only his dissertations on growing up in northern Indiana.

"I don't know why that is," he said. "I've discovered that any time you mention anything to do with childhood on the air that's as powerful to people as sex.

"The next thing you know, they think that's all you ever talk about," he said, referring to childhood. "I'll do three shows of satire on Norman Mailer and never hear a word about it, except from out of town."

Alas, the local radio image he hates may wind up on national TV because he wrote "Wanda Hickey's Night of Golden Memories and Other Disasters," a collection of short stories about his adolescence.

He says there's a strong possibility the book will be made into a TV movie this fall. The producers, he added, "want to use it as the basis for a series and I'd work in it both as a writer and performer.

"They want to use an interesting technique, do it more or less in the 'Our Town' style, where I'd step in and out of scenes."

It'd be his second go at national television. In 1971, he was on public TV in a wonderful 13-part exploration of the nation's lesser-known corners in "Jean Shepherd's America."

Marilyn's Desire To Shed Clothes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Marilyn Monroe had a compelling desire to undress in church so intense she had to "clench my teeth and sit on my hands to keep" from taking off her clothes when the organ was playing, Newsweek Magazine said today.

In an about-to-be-published autobiography called "My Story," Newsweek reports the film star wrote:

"No sooner was I in the pew with the organ playing and everybody singing a hymn that the impulse would come to me to take off all my clothes.

"I wanted desperately to stand up naked for God and everyone else to see. I had to clench my teeth and sit on my hands to keep myself from undressing."

Youth Is Victim Of Razor Cut

A 17-year-old San Rafael youth was the victim of a razor slashing last night, San Rafael police reported today.

Kenneth Wayne Clark of 223 Belle Avenue, Apt. B, received a small cut on the chest with a straight razor while walking in the 600 block of Francisco Boulevard at 8:45 p.m. He told police two young men got out of a car and hit him. One of them pulled out a straight razor and cut him before he could escape, he said. The two then left in a 1965 light blue Ford Mustang.

Clark described the one who cut him as 17 to 18 years old, five feet, eight inches tall, weighing about 180 pounds. He had blond shoulder-length hair. He wore a black and white checked shirt and blue jeans, according to police reports.

Clark told police he did not know his assailants nor did he know of any motive for the attack.

Suit Is Filed To Determine Attack

A headline on a story in Friday's Independent-Journal reporting a suit filed in Marin Superior Court made it appear that a beating had taken place, when in fact whether it did is the essence of the suit.

Lloyd Stanley Good, 17, in his $250,000 suit charges he was "attacked and struck" by Michael Gardner of San Anselmo, who denies the charge.

Challenge To Funding Redevelopment Unit

By PAUL CANE

A top official of the San Rafael Redevelopment Agency today defended the city's redevelopment plans at a morning metting of the Marin County Board of Realtors.

Ralph H. Neal, the assistant executive director of the agency, spoke to a group of about 100 realtors about the effects of redevelopment on their businesses. But several members of the audience, in a question-and-answer session following the talk, left that subject to challenge the agency's incremental property tax method of raising money for the project.

(Under California law, revenue generated by increases in assessed valuations in a redevelopment project district is kept from the taxing agencies and funneled into redevelopment projects.)

One realtor asked whether this method of siphoning tax dollars from other agencies would hurt service provided by the other taxing districts.

Neal replied, "we're not taking the money and burying it in a hole. Taxes lost by the incremental system should be regarded as an investment in the future health of the area. In the long run, the other taxing agencies will benefit from redevelopment."

Away from the controversial tax system, Neal warned the realtors that they must be aware of redevelopment's plans to best serve their customers.

"If I had a listing for a piece of property, the first thing I'd do is hustle down to the redevelopment office and say, 'Hey, do you want to buy this piece of property?' " Neal advised. "We're buying land all over the city, clearing it, and selling it to developers who want to build in line with our plans. This can be easy commissions for you."

One the other hand, he said, realtors selling property to developers themselves must be aware of whether the buyer's proposed improvements are in accord with what the redevelopment agency wants. Otherwise, the buyer will have to change his plans at great cost to himself in time and money, Neal warned.

Neal said realtors would be paid regular commissions in dealing with the redevelopment agency.

No More Fireworks, Just Good Baseball

There have been some changes made in Oakland A's baseball at the coliseum and it has taken both sight and sound from the side effects brought out by Charles O. Finley.

There are no longer any pretty, blonde ball girls shagging foul balls and there are no more fireworks going off when the A's hit home runs or win ball games. Both gimmicks were put into the coliseum games by Finley in an attempt to liven things up. But there is an economy move going on and those were the first things to go.

CHARLES FINLEY

First signs that Finley money was not flowing like the Mississippi River was when the players received their World Series rings this year and they lacked diamonds. They were pretty enough, gold with a green stone, but they didn't have the monetary value a diamond would have brought. And in case the players were to forget who bought the rings, their owner had his own name made part of the ring in raised, block letters.

Finley, as we all know, is not one to hide in the wings. You no sooner open up the team's 1974 souvenir yearbook when you are faced with a two-page spread on Charlie O., the man, not the mule. It's quite a success story, complete with six pictures of Finley with a supporting cast including Bob Hope, Jack Benny and Finley's wife. She was smiling then.

Thumbing through the magazine I counted 22 pictures of Finley but I admit I might have missed one or two. That man is not camera shy.

OPENING DAY at the coliseum Saturday drew only 22,743 fans, 15,229 less than the audience that greeted the A's in Oakland on opening day of 1973 after they had won their first world championship. At that rate of decline the A's had better not win a third championship.

The A's publicity corps had sent out releases on its opening day plans and accoridng to the release the National Anthem was to be sung by Rouvaun, "a dramatic and artistic vocalist reminiscent of Caruso and Mario Lanza." He sang, but in a different key and a different tempo than the band. The result was outrageous. He eventually had to stop partway through and get his act together. Either that or he forgot the words.

With the absence of the ball girls and fireworks, one wag in the press box quipped, "The only thing left is baseball."

THAT'S THE surprising thing. Baseball, as played by the two-time world champions, should be all that's needed to attract large crowds to the coliseum. But the A's are already behind the attendance of last year. After the Saturday opener, 11,125 turned out for a Sunday doubleheader and last night only 5,718 eager fans showed up.

If the A's played baseball like the A's of the past, those lean days in Kansas City, small turnouts could be expected. But since the move to Oakland the team has become the best in baseball. But still it is not drawing.

FINLEY HAD instituted the gimmicks such as fireworks and ball girls to make the game more entertaining, to get more fans to come out. He has apparently given up on such devices. Finley also has had to cut down on the number of special days for kids. Bat Day is scheduled for June 15 and Cap Day July 6 but there is no longer a Ball Day or T-Shirt Day.

It's a shame the A's don't draw. After all, it is the best team in baseball.

HIGH-FLYING MAJOR LEAGUERS

Major league baseball players have their ups and downs — particularly yesterday on the base-paths. Baltimore runner Bobby Grich (top photo) sent Milwaukee second baseman Pedro Garcia flying in an unsuccessful attempt to break up a double play. Brewers' shortstop Robin Yount backed up the play in Milwaukee. In the National League, Atlanta's Ralph Garr flew into home plate as San Diego catcher Fred Kendall braced for the throw and the collision during the second inning at Atlanta. Garr scored on Dusty Baker's sacrifice fly. See baseball story, page 32.

In Beating Giants, Dierker Shows Worth

HOUSTON (UPI) — It's true what Manager Preston Gomez says about Larry Dierker.

"He will be the stopper."

Actually that's not all the praise the skipper of the Houston Astros had to offer as he thought back over Dierker's three-hit, complete game win last night by the Astros over San Francisco 3-1.

"He proved to me that he can pitch in spring training. He has worked and pitched with pain and he has come a long way," Gomez said.

With the help of two late solo home runs by Lee May and Ollie Brown, the 27-year-old Dierker, sidelined by arm troubles most of 1973, won his second 1974 game.

"People were saying 'he's finished, he's through.' But I pitched a lot on the sidelines last year and my arm didn't feel that badly. Maybe I could have worked in some last year. I feel like I haven't been gone that long," he said.

The team's sole 20-game winner only pitched in 14 games last season and was 1-1. In his first start a week ago, he pitched seven innings and beat San Diego 9-5.

"He could have gone all the way," Gomez said.

Dierker was not sure he could go even part of the way in any preseason game.

"This spring I was pitching every four days and my arm felt like it was going to fall off," he said. "Since the last time out I pitched on the sixth day and my arm felt like it had new life. When I go back to four days it'll be another test."

Last night's confidence-building performance for Dierker almost didn't get started.

In the top of the first, San Francisco's Bobby Bonds led off with a single and scored after Chris Speier was hit by a pitch and Gary Matthews singled.

But Dierker was never in serious trouble again, allowing one runner to third base in the fifth. He struck out eight and walked three.

The Astros, evening their record at 5-5 and keeping the 6-4 Giants out of a tie for first place, tied the game in the third on Roger Metzger's single, a double by Ollie Brown and Cesar Cedeno's infield out.

Brown's homer in the seventh followed by one inning the solo shot by May and helped end a tight pitching duel between Dierker and the Giants' Mike Caldwell, now 2-1.

Terra Linda's John Boccabella started his first game as the Giants' catcher. He went hitless in three at-bats.

EXTRA-INNING GAMES

Something Funny Happens To Decide Outcome: Dark

OAKLAND (UPI) — Oakland A's Manager Alvin Dark hit it right on the head.

After the A's had eked out a 13-inning, 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox last night, Dark said "in games like this something funny always happens to decide the outcome."

By "funny" Dark actually meant something unexpected. In this case it was a check-swing single by utility infielder John Donaldson, up with the A's while Deron Johnson and Dick Green are on the disabled list.

Donaldson, a minor league player in recent seasons after serving a short stretch with the A's six years ago, got into the game when Dark replaced Sal Bando with pinch-runner Herb Washington in the bottom of the eighth.

Washington, a non-player whose only role with the A's is to pinch-run, stole his first base of the season but it didn't figure in any scoring since Reggie Jackson's sacrifice fly already had scored the tying run and sent the game into overtime.

But with no one else to use, Dark shoved Donaldson in at third base and the little infielder turned out to be a hero of sorts when he plopped the ball over shortstop Eddie Leon's head leading off the 13th.

Jackson followed with a long fly and then Donaldson scampered to second when Joe Rudi topped a slow roller to third. Gene Tenace worked the count to 2-2 on reliever Terry Forster before lining a solid single to score Donaldson with the winning run.

"That's right, I tried to hold up on my swing," said Donaldson of his hit, "but I couldn't and the ball dropped in for a hit. For a second I couldn't believe it."

Rollie Fingers, with four innings of two-hit relief, gained credit for the victory, his second in as many decisions, after Ken Holtzman pitched nine innings to keep the A's in the running. Forster, the last of five Chicago pitchers, took his third loss without a victory.

IRELAND'S CUSACK TRIUMPHS

Marathon Mastery To Europeans

BOSTON (UPI) — Mastery of the Boston Marathon has returned to Europe with a machine-like performance by a young Irish runner who could figure prominently in international track.

Neil Cusack, a slim, brown-haired Limerick native who attends East Tennessee State College, took a commanding lead yesterday early in the 26-mile 385-yard race, and maintained it with the aid of a slight tail wind and despite a brutal stretch of pavement known as Heartbreak Hill to win in the near-record time of 2:13:39.

It was the third-fastest time ever recorded in the 87-year history of the international event, three minutes and nine seconds off the record set by England's Ron Hill in 1970. The only other runner to better Cusack's time was Eamon O'Reilly, an American, who finished second to Hill in 1970.

Heartbreak Hill, a stretch of terror to hundreds of good runners, was too much for Cusack's only serious rival, Tom Fleming of the New York Athletic Club, who finished second in 2:14:25.

"I never even thought of time, strategy or anything like that. All I wanted to do was win the race," Cusack said after he crossed the finish line at the Prudential Building in the city's Back Bay section.

Cusack said prior to the race he wanted only to run well enough to qualify for the European championships later this summer.

"I've had a lot of indoor races, but I didn't know if I had enough training," he said. He added that Heartbreak Hill was the turning point of the race.

"That was the toughest part of the course. Other than that, it wasn't too bad. But it was bad enough. The only thing I thought of when I reached the Hill was to get the hell over it and go on with the race. I wasn't aware of who was second and I never even thought I had it until I got over Heartbreak Hill. Then I figured I had it won."

Fleming, who was among the early leaders, began closing the gap as the two runners entered the portion of the course which rises 180 feet in three and three-quarters miles in a series of four hills. By the time the two reached the top of the hills, Fleming had cut Cusack's lead from about 220 to 150 yards. But the effort proved too much for Fleming, who also finished second a year ago.

Jerome Drayton, Canada's best marathoner, finished third with a time of 2:15:33.

The woman's division winner was Miki Gorman, a tiny, 38-year-old housewife from Los Angeles, who finished in 2:47:11, 279th overall. The 86-pound world's woman marathon champ knocked 17:56 off the previous record set by Sara Mae Berman of Newton, Mass., in 1970.

The victory by Cusack gave the title back to the Europeans, who have dominated the race in past years. Last year's event was won by Jon Anderson of the Oregon Track Club —the only American to win the event since 1957.

AND THEY'RE OFF — Some 1,951 runners, a record number for the event, started from Hopkinton, Mass. yesterday in the 87th annual Boston Marathon.

FOR SOUTHERN CAL CONTRACT

QB Lamonica Is Likely To Jump

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Veteran Oakland Raider quarterback Daryle Lamonica apparently will sign with the World Football League today.

The Southern California Sun franchise called a news conference today while Lamonica said only last night that he was here for some "serious negotiating."

Lamonica reportedly will play out his option year this season and then be free to join the Sun for the 1975 season.

His package deal, including deferred payments and incentives, reportedly will be in the $1 million range and span either three or four years. He was believed to be making around $90,000 annually with the Raiders.

Since Ken Stabler signed a similar $1 million deal with Birmingham 13 days ago, it means that the Raiders must find another quarterback soon. However, Stabler has two more years to go on his Raider contract.

Oregon State Adds Sherbert As Coach

Jim Sherbert, who spent a decade of his life learning football, apparently will spend the next several years teaching it.

JIM SHERBERT
An assistant

The former Terra Linda High School star has been named an assistant coach at Oregon State University in Corvallis, Ore., by head coach Dee Andros.

It is something of a promotion for Sherbert, who has been a student assistant with the Beaver varsity and junior varsity teams the past two years while teaching at a nearby high school.

A 1972 graduate of Oregon State, Sherbert twice was named all-coast and all-Pacific-8 as a defensive end. He tried out unsuccessfully as a free agent for the Dallas Cowboys that summer.

He was named to the West team for the 1971 Shrine East-West game at Candlestick Park.

Sherbert replaces Sam Boghosian on Andros' staff, Boghosian joined the Houston Oilers of the National Football League.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Special Regulations For New Reserve

The Fish and Game Commission at its April 5 meeting set up the Tomales Bay Ecological Reserve and the special regulations for its use. The following now constitutes the reserve:

That marsh land and tidal flat at the southern extremity of Tomales Bay which is bounded approximately "on the northeast by the shoreline nearest State Highway 1, on the east by the first rise of hills above the marsh, on the southeast by the levees separating marsh land from wet meadow, on the southwest by the marsh edge near Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, and on the northwest by a line drawn from Willow Point in a northeasterly direction to the mouth of a small creek approximately one mile south of Millerton Creek on the opposite shore."

The special regulations for use are:

1. Waterfowl may be taken during the regular waterfowl season in accordance with the general waterfowl regulations.
2. Fishing shall be permitted from boats as well as from shore.
3. Swimming, wading and diving shall be allowed.
4. Boats may be operated within the ecological reserve. Only light-weight, hand-carried boats may be launched within the ecological reserve.
5. Shotguns for the purpose of taking waterfowl may be possessed by hunters within the ecological reserve during the regular waterfowl season.
6. The land area only of the ecological reserve shall be closed to all entry from March 1 through June 30, except for foot travel on the southeastern dike which terminates at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

HAVE YOU EVER wondered just what Ducks Unlimited is accomplishing? Jan R. Tennyson, Editor of the Ducks Unlimited magazine, gives a pretty clear picture in his April "letters to the Editor." He writes: "The final income report for our 1973 fund raising year is about finished. Indications are that Ducks Unlimited, Inc. raised over $5,000,000 for habitat preservation in 1973. The purpose of Ducks Unlimited, Inc. for many years has been to raise funds for the preservation and maintenance of waterfowl breeding habitats in Canada, where over 70 per cent of all waterfowl on the North American continent originate.

The organization was founded for this purpose in 1937 during a period when severe drought threatened the very existence of our continental waterfowl population. Since then D. U. has raised over 33 million dollars for this effort.

THE RESULTS? Ducks Unlimited has constructed over 1,200 projects. These efforts represent nearly two million water acres and over 9,500 miles of shoreline. Through its 37 years of existence Ducks Unlimited has sought to make 80 cents of every dollar collected available for its intended purpose in Canada.

Out of the remaining 20 cents comes all funds for field operations, promotion, and education. A scant 4 per cent goes for administration. The $5,000,000 collected represents your contribution and those of nearly 100,000 D. U. members.

It represents the effort of nearly 600 fund raising chapters manned by volunteer workers all over the country, plus certain state governments which contribute through state license fees or state duck stamps. Our program represents an exercise in international cooperation between Americans, Canadians and Mexicans in the newly formed Ducks Unlimited of Mexico, an organization dedicated to the preservation of wintering areas". I guess that pretty well sums things up. A salute to Ducks Unlimited!

I ALSO RECEIVED a note from Paul White formerly of Marin, now living in the Tule Lake area. He says, "Waterfowl are all over the place and nesting. Honkers are nesting too, and the swans passed through on their way to their nesting grounds further north. And the Upper Klamath Lake is producing some nice six to 10-pound lake trout now, says he. He also says hello to all his Marin friends and especially to Al Gheringhelli of Fairfax, the old Tule Lake spoonie hunter.

Did you see this week's Novato Advance? Good grief — it has a picture of seven kids with a huge 25-pound spawned out steelhead which they netted out of the creek up there — strictly illegal. All of the streams in Marin County are closed to the taking of these spawning fish.

NICK PENDLETON of Mill Valley spent some fishing time up at the famous Davis Lake in Plumas County this past week. He says fishing fair — should be tops in a week or so.

Around San Pablo Bay Saturday some 32 boats out, no bass, five sturgeon. Fred Miller took an 80-pounder earlier last week.

ROB LONG
"Strong as a bull" with 4.1 speed to first base, he hits triples in bunches — three in a game, nine this year.
(Sketch by Jack Lucey)

PREP OF WEEK

A Record Year For Rob Long

By LEW CODDINGTON

They say the triple is the most exciting play in baseball: the long hit, the relay throw, the sprint to third base. If that is so, then Rob Long is setting records for excitement this year.

Long, a muscular center fielder from Redwood High School, has been blasting hits up power alleys and off distant walls all spring, attracting major league scouts and sending coach Al Endriss into fits of superlatives like, "He's the best power hitter we've ever had at Redwood. Strong as a bull."

Last week at the Fresno tournament was a bit excessive, even by Long's standards. In four games, the left-handed swinger went nine for 12 with seven runs batted in. He set tourney records for batting average (.750) and triples (five). Three of the triples came in one game, two with the bases loaded. With 12 games to go, he already has obliterated Bob Ostaggi's 15-year-old school record for triples in a season — four.

Long was not named the most valuable player in the tourney. That honor went to first baseman Bob Kane of champion Bullard of Fresno, who went nine for 13 despite a zero for three showing against Redwood. Long's performance did win him Independent-Journal Prep of the Week honors.

"I've been playing since I was five years old," Long says. "My dad (Francis) coached Little League. I've always had the power."

At 5-feet-10 and 180 pounds, Long looks like a candidate for the catcher's mask, but he doesn't run or throw like one. He has been timed from home to first in a fast 4.1 seconds, and his left-handed pegs from center field are up to major league standard, according to Endriss.

Professional scouts are taking notice. Long says six or eight have asked him to fill out cards for their files and another nine or so talked to him at Fresno.

The scouts have to look fast, since they didn't have a chance to see him last year. Instead of playing for Redwood, Long played hockey in a junior league in San Francisco, where he was an all-star defenseman three years in a row.

"I'm sorry I didn't play baseball last year," he says now.

Hockey did help his baseball playing in one important area. To build up his wrists, Long practices shooting a five-pound lead ball with a hockey stick. "I just made it up myself," he says. "It seems to help."

A senior, Long carries a 2.8 grade point average and is undecided between signing a pro baseball contract, if he is drafted, or going to college. "If I get a full ride to school, I'll probably take it," he says. Arizona State and St. Mary's have expressed interest so far, St. Mary's having signed star Redwood pitcher Gene Frey last year.

He will know better where he stands after the major league draft early in June. In the meantime, he'll just continue hitting the Long ball.

49ers Sign End Fahnhorst

Combined AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — The San Francisco 49ers yesterday signed tight end Keith Fahnhorst of Minnesota, a second round choice in the National Football League draft, and will try him as a replacement for Ted Kwalick, who joins the World Football League's Hawaii club in 1975.

"We'll look at Keith first as a tight end," said coach Dick Nolan of the 6-foot-6, 254-pound Fahnhorst. Prior to Kwalick's jump to the NFL earlier this month, the 49ers had plans to convert Fahnhorst to an offensive tackle.

"I like tight end, but I'd be willing to play tackle. I'd just like to play," said the 22-year-old Fahnhorst. He was the Gophers' leading receiver, catching 10 passes last season, and played in the East-West Shrine game here and the Senior Bowl.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Wright's Angel Downfall Can Be Brewers' Windfall

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Clyde Wright's downfall last season may turn out to be a windfall for the Milwaukee Brewers.

Wright, a 31-year-old left-hander who won 22 games for California in 1970, slumped to a dismal 11-19 record last year with the Angels and was put on the trading block this past winter where he was promptly picked up by the Brewers for catcher Ellie Rodriguez.

It was a deal the Brewers couldn't refuse and one they're hoping will make them contenders in the American League East Division this year. They figure last season was just one of those crazy things that sometimes happens to a pitcher. Clyde Wright, a loser? No way.

So far, in two starts as a Brewer, Wright has justified his new club's faith in him. He boosted his record to 2-0 last night when he four-hit the Baltimore Orioles in a 6-1 triumph.

The Brewers made Wright's task easier by getting him five runs in the second inning off Mike Cuellar. Four singles plus a walk and a throwing error by Cuellar accounted for the runs.

In other American League games, Detroit edged Boston 1-0, California whipped Minnesota 8-1 and Oakland nipped Chicago 4-3 in 13 innings.

Philadelphia beat St. Louis 3-2, Atlanta blanked San Diego 6-0 and Houston topped San Francisco 3-1 in the only National League action.

Tigers 1, Red Sox 0

Norm Cash's first homer of the year and the three-hit pitching of Joe Coleman enabled the Tigers to beat the Red Sox on Patriot's Day in Boston.

Angels 8, Twins 1

Bill Singer tossed a five-hitter and Joe Lahoud batted in two runs with a homer and a single to spark the Angels over the Twins.

Novato Golf Team Is Ready For Showdown

In high school play, the magic number of 200 separates the golfers from the duffers, and its' pretty obvious where Novato High School's team belongs.

The Hornets shot their fourth consecutive sub-200 round yesterday as they improved their Marin County Athletic League record to 4-0 and primed for their showdown Thursday with San Rafael (3-0).

Novato defeated Marin Catholic, 194-231, at Meadow Club. Yesterday's other match saw Redwood top San Marin, 203-244, also at Meadow.

Novato's Rick Anderson shot an even-par 36 for nine holes. John Vaeth's two-over-par 37 led Redwood's victory.

Redwood's rained-out match with Tamalpais will be made up next Monday at Meadow as part of a three-way match also involving Marin Catholic, Giant coach Bob Sargent said.

49ers' Home Opener Vs. Cincinnati

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers announced their 1974 National Football League schedule today and it includes a team the club never has played before—the Cincinnati Bengals in the home opener on Sept. 29.

The 49ers open the season on the road against New Orleans on Sept. 15 and then meet the Falcons in Atlanta the following Sunday before making their debut in Candlestick Park against Paul Brown's Bengals.

An oddity of the schedule has San Francisco hosting the cross bay Oakland Raiders twice—in exhibition on Sept. 2 and in the regular season on Oct. 27. It will be only the second regular season game between the two rivals.

Other home games will be against St. Louis, Los Angeles, Atlanta, Green Bay and New Orleans with San Francisco finishing the season in Candlestick Park on Dec. 15 against the Saints.

Another oddity has the 49ers on national television four weeks in a row starting with a Monday night game at Detroit Oct. 14 and continuing against the Rams in Los Angeles, at home against the Raiders, the third week and at home in another Monday night game against Los Angeles.

The club has one other Monday night date which will be televised and that is its Sept. 2 exhibition with Oakland.

Allison Wins Dixie 100 Race Driving Chevy

ROUGEMONT, N.C. (UPI) — Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., led almost from start to finish yesterday to win the Dixie 100 late model sportsman race at Trico Speedway.

Allison, driving a Chevelle, briefly battled Tiny Lund of Cross, S.C., early in the race, but took a narrow lead and held it.

Lund's Camaro was second, three seconds behind Allison. Sam Ard of Asheboro was third in a Chevelle.

Charles Moody started from the pole position, but mechanical problems early in the race forced him and his Ford Fairline out of the event.

Only Three Playoff Foes For Raiders

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Oakland Raiders will meet only three of last year's playoff teams during the 1974 regular season, according to the official National Football League schedule.

Oakland will visit Pittsburgh Sept. 29, host Cincinnati Oct. 20 and host Dallas Dec. 14.

The Raiders will play the first Monday night game, Sept. 16 at Buffalo. Other highlights include an Oct. 27 game at San Francisco and the traditionally important home-and-home series with West Division rival Kansas City, Sept. 22 in Oakland and Dec. 8 on the road.

The schedule:

Sept. 16, at Buffalo (Mon.); Sept. 22, Kansas City; Sept. 29, at Pittsburgh; Oct. 6, at Cleveland; Oct. 13, San Diego; Oct. 20, Cincinnati; Oct. 27, at San Francisco; Nov. 3, at Denver; Nov. 10, Detroit; Nov. 17, at San Diego; Nov. 24, Denver; Dec. 1, New England; Dec. 8, at Kansas City; Dec. 14, Dallas (Sat.).

Fatter Packer Profits Likely

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Two years ago I paid $4.00 per share for Bluebird Inc. (ASE) stock. Should I keep these shares or not? — P.L.

A. A turnaround this year seems to be in the cards for meat packers. In the quarter ended January, sharply higher sales were posted for the three major pork processors. Bluebird's sales showed a 14 per cent gain for the six months through January while earnings gained 50 per cent. Last year was a difficult one for the industry; soaring hog prices, shrinking supplies, rising retail prices, consumer boycotts and price freezes all took their toll. A modest increase in the slaughter is expected this year, with prices somewhat easier. Further, the Phase IV pass-through-to-consumer of higher hog costs should continue to be allowed this year.

Despite the problems which plagued the industry last year, Bluebird managed a 39 per cent increase in earnings. Nonetheless, the market tends to tar everyone with the same brush and these shares moved sideways. Actually, this was no mean accomplishment when counterparts lost 50 per cent of their trading value. Hold.

Q. I belong to a pool that buys certificates of deposit through a NYSE member firm. Are CD's insured by the bank? Should the broker fail what are his liabilities on this type of account? — B.R.

A. Certificates of deposit are generally sold in $100,000 minimum amounts, although some brokers pool funds from several investors, permitting purchase of smaller amounts ($5,000). For a $15 minimum fee payable each time the CD is rolled over, the small investor has the opportunity to collect, currently, 9¾ per cent on short-term, 30 to 60-day money. The confirmation slip from your broker states the name of the issuing bank. Paper issued by First National City Bank, Chase Manhattan and J. P. Morgan is prime-rated with the full faith and credit of the bank's assets pledged to meet interest and principal. Furthermore, your brokerage account is insured under SIPC for up to $20,000 in cash — CD's being negotiable are considered cash.

Sales Post 6 Per Cent Marin Gain

Taxable sales in Marin County for the fourth quarter of 1973 were up 6.4 per cent over the fourth quarter of 1972 for a total of $144,865,000.

Sales in the principal cities in the county were:

San Rafael $64,856,000; Novato $13,266,000; Corte Madera $11,648,000; and Sausalito $8,917,000. In Southern Sonoma, Petaluma had sales of $21,095,000.

Statewide, taxable sales for the fourth quarter of 1973 were the highest in history, topping $16.9 billion for a gain of 11.7 per cent from a year previous, according to William M. Bennett, a member of the State Board of Equalization.

Sharp Construction Upturn Is Reported

Following two months of substantial declines, February contracts for new construction in the 11 Western states turned in a sharp — plus 15 per cent — seasonally-adjusted increase over the January rate, it was reported today by the F. W. Dodge Division of McGraw-Hill Information Systems Company of Los Angeles.

A noted authority on the construction market, the firm produces Dodge Reports and newspapers on construction activity and Sweet's catalog files of building product information.

"The strength of the seasonally-adjusted series signals an end to the wait-and-see attitude prevalent in the West's construction markets recently, due to the uncertainties brought on by the fuel and materials shortages," remarked George A. Christie, vice president and chief economist for Dodge.

Christie cautioned that this improved, seasonally-adjusted rate of contracting represented a return to normal conditions following the depressed mid-winter levels, not a gain in activity. The latest monthly contract award total in the region, at $1,204,761,000, remains 12 per cent below the February, 1973, amount.

At the end of two months, the cumulative value of total construction contract awards in the West stands at $2,272,906,000, 16 per cent below that for the opening two months of 1973.

Nonresidential building in the 11-state Western region, at $477,861,000 in February, turned in a huge 36 per cent gain. "All major nonresidential building categories except manufacturing and health facilities, recorded substantial gains during the month," Christie reported. "Strength in this, the category that is most closely related to trends in the business cycle, is particularly encouraging at a time when talk of economic recession is so prominent," the Dodge economist noted.

Optimism On Prime Rate Aids Stocks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Optimism that the worst may be over in terms of rising interest rates sent stock prices sharply higher in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange today.

Buying today apparently reflected hopes the prime lending rate may have reached a peak. Yesterday, two banks raised the rate charged to most creditworthy business borrowers past the previous record of 10 per cent. But no other banks have yet followed with similar moves.

Investors also were encouraged today by news that yields on short-term Treasury bills declined sharply at the latest auction. It was hoped this would take some of the upward pressure off the prime rate.

Among sharply higher glamors, Xerox added 1 ¾. The company late yesterday reported first quarter earnings totaled $1 a share, compared with 88 cents the same period last year.

Burroughs climbed 4 ⅜, Digital Equipment 2 ⅛. Scoring point-sized advances were IBM, Honeywell, Motorola, Texas Instruments, Polaroid, Disney, McDonald's Corp., Merek, and Upjohn.

Florida Power Corp. led the actives, unchanged at 22 ⅛ on 181,700 shares, including a 177,500-share package at 22.

The oil group attracted buyers, with Getty ahead 2, and Atlantic Richfield, Murphy Oil, Natomas, Halliburton and Schlumberger each gaining at least a point.

Prices on the American Exchange rose in stepped-up trading. Buell Industries, the volume leader, fell 1 ⅜ to 7 ½ on 113,200 shares.

EUGENE W. TRAVERSO of San Rafael has been named vice president and director of marketing and research for Imperial Savings and Loan Association, San Francisco. He comes to the association from the parent company, Imperial Corporation of America in San Diego, where he was vice president and assistant to the president.

Traverso will direct the newly-created marketing and research department of Imperial Savings and will also be in charge of all advertising and public relations.

Traverso joined Imperial Savings and Loan in 1963 and was vice president and branch administrator of the Santa Rosa office until 1971 when he joined the parent company in San Diego.

PUMPERDINK'S International Delicatessen in Downtown Novato Center, corner of Seventh and Grant, will begin serving beer and wine on the premises in about a month.

Edward and Sarah A. Malouf, who became sole owners of Pumperdink's, decided to change the beer and wine license from off-sale to on-sale. "Approval should be coming in about 30 days," said Malouf. "We feel we have the largest stock of imported beers in Novato." Pumperdink's has seating for about 30 customers.

BAUMAN & MILLER Marine Supplies at Clipper Yacht Harbor in Sausalito now has 25 per cent more space for merchandise than before, says new owner T. F. Carter, who took over last month from Henry Bauman and Dick Miller.

Space formerly occupied by yacht sales and insurance activity has been converted into merchandise display for more yachting supplies, equipment and clothing. Bauman Bros. and Dick Miller Sales and Insurance has moved to an adjacent site. "Our goal," said Carter, "is to give boatowners every choice between the most elaborate merchandise and the least expensive that's practical. But like Hank Bauman and Dick Miller, I won't sell poor quality that does not last."

Carter, 53, resigned from the corporate business world in 1972, bought a 42-foot cruiser and completed a year's cruise to Mexico with his wife, Barbara. They are both active in the operation of Bauman & Miller Marine Supplies.

Supervisors Divert Focus Of Complaint

A favorite ploy of public officials is to divert attention away from a legitimate public complaint to some problem of their own devising.

There seems to be quite a bit of this in a report of a committee of two Marin County supervisors on the county fair and Veterans Memorial Building.

The committee, composed of Robert A. Roumiguiere and Gary T. Giacomini, was appointed as result of county grand jury criticism of operation of the Veterans Memorial Building. The auditorium-theater was not used sufficiently, the grand jury held, and its rental policies discouraged use by local organizations for which it ostensibly was intended.

However, in appointing the committee, the board of supervisors charged it also with reviewing the future of the county fair. This opened the way for the committee to divert attention from the legitimate problem.

AND THAT'S just what it did. In their report last week, Roumiguiere and Giacomini dwelt at length on the fair, and had little to say about the genuine problem regarding the Veterans Memorial Building.

The building was erected largely with funds from a tax imposed specifically for just what it is named: Veterans Memorial Building. But, aside from the name, the building is of little or no use to veterans.

It was with some misgivings that representatives of veteran organizations were persuaded by a former board of supervisors to agree to use of the funds for an auditorium-theater. The plea was that Marin had no such theater of sufficient size for entertainments by Marin's own cultural groups and visiting performing artists. Veteran representatives finally agreed to the idea with the promise of the supervisors that the building would also contain meeting rooms for their organizations.

It does not.

Neither is it available for many locally produced entertainments, because of the use and rental policies adopted by its management — with consent of the board of supervisors.

The veterans, and all Marin taxpayers who paid a special tax to finance a Veterans Memorial Building, have been hornswoggled.

BUT THE REPORT by Roumiguiere and Giacomini did not go into that. Instead, it went at length into county fair policies, and was critical of the fair management for failing in the first two years at the new location to produce an exposition more completely different from the Marin Art and Garden Fair formerly staged in Ross.

It recommended creation of a fair advisory board to re-direct the fair and the auditorium. But it set forth specific things regarding the fair that the proposed advisory board should do — and no specific re-direction of policy regarding the auditorium.

The grand jury's complaint — shared by many others — was about the Veterans Memorial Building. The supervisors seem to have succeeded in the familiar ploy by diverting attention to pretended inadequacies of the fair.

No More Oregon Juncos

We will no longer see the Oregon junco or the red-shafted flicker in Marin. But shed no tears for the little black-headed bird or his long-billed friend. They will still be around, but under different names.

After due deliberation, the American Ornithologists' Union has decided the Oregon junco and three other juncos are members of the same species because they freely interbreed. Therefore, all four become the dark-eyed junco. And by some horrible lack of imagination, the yellow-shafted, the golden-shafted and the red-shafted flicker are all debased to the name of common flicker.

Phone Company Fights Against New Competition

By EARL G. WATERS

An issue which could have an impact on the costs and quality of telephone service is being studied by the state's Public Utility Commission.

The issue, simply stated, is one of competition. Manufacturers of various special equipment which can be hooked up to telephones are battling over their right to offer such equipment for sale and use in connection with the regulated phone companies' lines.

For the most part the equipment in contention parallels that furnished by the phone companies. The difference is that the phone companies charge a monthly rate for the specialized equipment while the competitors offers it for sale. The attraction to the customer is the avoidance of the monthly charges.

The phone companies are protected from competition and are fighting to preserve this protection.

BUT IT WAS NOT always that way. In earlier days, not only the phone companies but other utilities, such as gas and electric companies, were competitive. And the situation was chaotic with parallel lines running down the streets. If you wanted to call someone on the phone, he had to be a subscriber to the same phone company service as the caller or no dice.

Into this disorder came the government, which determined it to be against the best public interest to have competitive utility situations. Thus was established a regulatory commission of which today's PUC is the outgrowth. In lieu of competition the state, through the PUC, sets the charges which may be made by the utility companies.

The phone companies' opposition to the ancillary equipment being supplied by others is based on two contentions.

Pacific Telephone claims that it costs about three times what it charges to provide customers with basic phone service. The difference, it states, is made up in charges for what the company calls "vertical services." These include switchboards, extensions, and various special equipment.

If these services are lost to competition or if the phone companies have to lower charges for the auxiliary equipment, the low basic charges for phone service will have to rise, PT&T claims.

IT FURTHER ARGUES that introduction of equipment not approved by it will have an adverse effect on the quality of telephone service.

Unlike a faulty toaster where the consequences are simply a blown fuse or a ruined breakfast, faulty phone equipment hooked onto the telephone network can affect scores of users.

Among the effects, they say, can be poor transmission, cross talk, wrong numbers and even a breakdown of service.

While the phone companies have refrained from using the term "bootleg equipment," the fact is that already there is considerable use of equipment not furnished or approved by the phone companies. When such equipment is used the customer may be making himself liable for damages to the phone company's lines and equipment.

These factors will be studied by the PUC in reaching a decision.

Class Discrimination In Judge's Reasoning

Re: Judge E. Warren McGuire's letter justifying his action and judgment in a robbery case:

He writes "the court considered. . . (2) All were of high intelligence, extremely well-educated and honor student backgrounds. . ."

As a person that came from poor parents, who had only grade school education, I resent leniency towards well-educated criminals.

This is class discrimination in its rawest form.

Thanks To IDESST Lodge For Devotion To Youth

This is an open letter of recognition and thanks to the president, officers and members of the IDESST, a Portuguese lodge in Sausalito.

For the past 15 years these people have been the sole sponsor of the "Royals," a baseball team for boys from 13 to 15 years of age in my community. They have always and unselfishly given their full financial and moral support to these boys. Now after all these years they have regretfully decided to withdraw the sponsorship.

I,as past coach and manager, would like to take a moment to publicly thank each and every member of the IDESST for the fine humanitarian interest they have taken in the youth of my community. I am certain that I speak, not only for the boys, but also for the parents of those boys, both past and present, who by this organization's efforts were given an opportunity to participate.

Would List Burglary Locations, not Victims

Regarding the publicizing of burglaries in the newspaper, I agree with David Wade's objections printed April 1. The listing of the monetary value of loss only points out the fact that a particular dwelling has objects of great value. There is a general assumption that can be made that the residence is frequently unoccupied for great lengths of time. It can also imply that the neighbors in this area are not very aware of suspicious activity, the general life patterns of their neighbors, or just do not "get involved."

Your reply as to the reason for publicizing this information has merit but little substance when the listing of a theft by a general block number, street and town would accomplish the same thing and still allow the "victim" some measure of prvacy and feeling of safety against further thefts . . .

Lifting Oil Embargo Won't Solve Problems

This letter is written concerning the proposed oil embargo lift by the Arabs. It seems to me that these last few months without oil weren't all that bad, and even if they did hurt us a little bit, we should start thinking about the time when the supply of oil will be completely drained and depleted. With the growing problems of overpopulation and the shortage of food, I think more people should start looking for ways that don't use oil, and to stop thinking that the embargo would solve all of our country's present-day problems. It wouldn't.

Heads Hurt From Banging Against School Board

As individuals we usually feel completely helpless when faced with the bureaucracy of the federal and state governments. Ah, but local government we can move because it contains the grass roots representatives, our neighbors and fellow community members. They care what we think, covet our opinions, work for us!

However, that seemed not to be the case to those of us witnessing the actions of our Dixie School Board against Dr. Earl Thomason and the Mary E. Silveira School community.

With the exception of Ruth Rosen, not one of them has heard us. They comforted us with false promises of caring what we thought, wanting our opinions and working in our best interests.

After two fruitless meetings with them, they have the audacity to ask us to return yet a third time when they are "better prepared" to answer our questions regarding their priorities in decisions affecting us and our school.

Our heads hurt from banging them against the proverbial brick wall. The only place we could satisfactorily return would be the voting booth for the purpose of electing school board members who care what we think and believe in their responsibility as our elected representatives.

Kind Stranger Helps Child Acquire Pet

On March 25 I went to the Humane Society to purchase a dog that was about to be put to death. I rode out on the bus and when I got there I discovered that the dog cost more than I had with me ($30). When I went outside a lady asked me what the matter was and I told her. She gave me the $10 for the dog. Afterwards, when I got the dog home, we discovered that it was a male dog. My mom called the Humane Society and they promised to refund the $20, which was a spaying charge. Since I could not pay this kind lady back because she would not give her name, I am using the money to help pay for the vet because the puppy was also very sick. Now he is well and happy and I will never forget that lovely kind lady who made it possible for me to have my adorable puppy, Snuffy. If all grownups were like this lady, maybe kids like me would grow up with respect and love for everyone.

'Have-Nots' Seek To Redress Imbalance Through Raw Materials

Something new happened in the world last week. At the United Nations in New York, there was opened the first all-world conference on ways, means, and possibilities of reorganizing the future relationship of the industrial countries with the raw material producing countries — of the "haves" with the "have-nots."

The inspiration was provided by the four-fold rise in the price of oil following the latest Middle East war and the ensuing embargo on shipment of Arab oil to the United States.

The producers of other raw materials saw, marveled, and wondered whether they might get aboard the same gravy train.

AN ALGERIAN newspaper, Al-Moujahid, asked: "How would it be if the oil embargo were supplemented by one on copper, aluminum and even cocoa?"

Algeria was a leader in organizing on the theory that "the imperialist world has for too long been nestled in its wealth and its well-padded style of life."

This view of the situation was neither entirely accurate nor popular with the industrial countries. It explains an initial lack of enthusiasm for the conference on the part of Washington. Moscow was also cool.

But it also explains the eagerness of African and Asian exporters of raw materials. And of course Washington and Moscow, both of whom export raw materials as well as finished goods, found it prudent to go along.

THE THEORY AMONG the eager organizers is in part valid. The oil embargo proved that countries which in the past had little bargaining power, can gain greatly if their main export is in high demand and low supply.

But it was careless of Al-Moujahid to include cocoa on the list of goods which arè presumably due for higher prices. Cocoa has gone up by 44.4 per cent in "terms of trade" for 1970 through the last quarter of 1973. That is, the relative rise of cocoa prices has been 44.4 per cent higher than the relative average rise of manufactured prices.

That is not as high a rise as oil, of course. But cocoa producers can buy nearly half again as much in automobiles or sewing machines today as they could in 1969.

IT IS, IN OTHER WORDS, a gross oversimplification to think in terms of a world in which the industrialized countries have been taking advantage of the poor and long-suffering and overexploited producers of primary prodcts. For one thing, the United States is the world's single largest producer of primary products as well as being the world's first producer of manufactured goods.

A far more accurate view of the world is that the terms of trade, which for a long time did favor manufactured goods, now tend to favor favor primary goods. It almost could be argued that the countries which depend largely on manufacturing are more deserving of relief than those which depend primarily on raw or agricultural goods, although concern for the industrialized countries was not the main motivation for the conference.

But, the law of supply and demand is in quiet operation beneath all the talk, and the greatest single worry should not be about oil, but about food. Most food items have been going up rapidly in cost due more than anything else to the population explosion. People are in longer supply than food. The rise in food prices will presumably stimulate the production of food, and might delay the final day of reckoning. But the greatest single danger to the human race today comes from the inordinate rise in population. If that were checked, everything else would (or at least ought to be) manageable.

STROUT IN WASHINGTON

'Show-Me' Congressman Out To Revamp Committees

By RICHARD L. STROUT

WASHINGTON — President Nixon says Congress isn't doing its work.

Congress says it may impeach the President.

Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., whatever he may think about impeachment, rather agrees with the president about Congress. He is dynamic, abrasive, and experienced, and is out to do something about it.

Congress, says Bolling, is a "shambles." He notes that the public thinks even less of the legislature (21 per cent) than it does of the president (31 per cent). And he heads a powerful drive to improve Congress.

THE NATION WANTS tax reform. Why doesn't Congress vote tax reform? Tax reform is in the hands of the House Ways and Means Committee. The committee doesn't get to tax reform because it is also the custodian of foreign trade, and pensions, and a dozen other critical matters. Just as congressional power over the years has flowed into the hands of the White House, so in the same way much of the reservoir of congressional power has been flowing into the hands of Ways and Means. The committee has so many things to do, it is asserted, it can't readily get around to tax reform. And it has made Rep. Wilbur Mills (D), chairman of Ways and Means, perhaps the most powerful man in the lower House.

Or take the subject of energy.

Everybody agrees something should be done right away about energy, what with all those lines at filling stations, and all. But legislation doesn't pass. Why? To begin with, Congress couldn't agree with Mr. Nixon on what to do, and the Democrats lacked the two-thirds to override a veto (if it came). Putting that question aside, however, it still seems strange that there is near-deadlock in an emergency on this subject. Richard Bolling means it when he says Congress is a shambles, and in the energy crisis he notes that Congress has 24 separate committees with authority over aspects of energy, and 14 of them (yes, 14) last year held hearings on what to do.

THIS IS THE IDEA on which Mr. Bolling is working. It is simple and radical. Why not take away some of the extraordinary suzerainty of Chairman Mills' Ways and Means Committee so that, maybe, tax reform can get to the floor. At the same time, perhaps, consolidate some of the authority over energy of those 24 committees in one place so that a policy can emerge? He wants, in a word, a major congressional committee shake-up.

Mr. Bolling is no novice. He is one of the most knowledgeable men in the House about rules and strategies. He works closely with Speaker Carl Albert.

A year ago a bold plan took shape in Congress — to create a House restructuring committee, to revise committees and propose procedural changes. Sounds dull, perhaps. And yet the dethronement of "czar" Uncle Joe Cannon (Joseph G. Cannon, speaker of the House in 1910) was one of the greatest shows this city ever witnessed. A feisty young Wisconsin congressman named Bob La Follette helped do it. Wilbur Mills doesn't want to be cast in the role of Speaker Cannon today.

REPRESENTATIVE BOLLING was made chairman of a 10-man bipartisan Select Committee of Committees. Normally a committee of this Congress would have six Democrats and four Republicans but not this one; it has five Democrats and five Republicans because Representative Bolling means business and wants support of all sides. Chairman Bolling and vice-chairman Dave Martin, R-Neb., are both members of the important Rules Committee. Many other committees are represented in the Bolling group but not Ways and Means.

The committee has issued a unanimous report (nothing short of astonishing in the circumstances) and all it has to do now is to change a 28-year trend. Yes, in 1946 there was the last great House committee shake-up, called the greatest legislature reform of the century. The "reform" in 1946 reduced committees from 48 to 19 (with two more subsequently added) but subcommittees weren't included and today there are 125 of them! Many think today Bolling can't win, but anybody who knows him thinks it will be a great fight.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Four things are grievously empty: a head without brains, a wit without judgment, a heart without honesty, and a purse without money. — John Earle.

An adventure is only an inconvenience rightly considered. An inconvenience is only an adventure wrongly considered. — G.K. Chesterton.

The doctrine which, from the very first origin of religious dissensions, has been held by bigots of all sects, when condensed into a few words and stripped of rhetorical disguise, is simply this: I am in the right, and you are in the wrong. When you are the stronger, you ought to tolerate me, for it is your duty to tolerate truth. But when I am the stronger I shall persecute you, for it is my duty to persecute error. — Thomas Babington Macaulay.

Growth Limit Policies Forced By Water And Sewer Problems

Growth limiting policies may become quite common in Southern Sonoma despite a January U.S. District Court ruling which threw out Petaluma's.

In Cotati, the planning commission has announced it will approve no new construction until the city council finds a way to supply sufficient water to all residents. Right now about 2,500 use a water system built to handle 1,000, and there will probably be a lot of brown lawns in Cotati this summer.

In Rohnert Park, freshman City Councilman David L. Eck, is trying to persuade the council to adopt a moratorium on new building projects.

In both cases, the basic problem is that essential municipal services such as water and sewer systems haven't expanded rapidly enough to meet the crush of new residents in the last decade.

SANTA CLARA COUNTY is being mentioned more and more in Southern Sonoma, where some residents believe that subdivisional sprawl will blanket the last pasture before the turn of the century.

It depends to whom you're talking. The real estate people, of course, don't seem to be losing much sleep over Southern Sonoma's popularity with commuters. But some of the residents do, because they came north in search of a less crowded and more rural environment —the "great American dream" which has caused so much of the population to abandon urban centers since the second World War.

The die may already be cast for Sonoma. State labor surveys have already started calling Petaluma a "suburb of San Francisco."

ADRIENNE SWENSON, chairman of the Cotati Planning Commission, has convinced city councilmen to prohibit smoking during meetings.

Mrs. Swenson pleaded that citizens have a "fundamental human right to breathe clean air."

She said she is among those who are physically unable to tolerate tobacco smoke. To permit smoking at government meetings, she reasoned, is to permit the exclusion of some citizens.

The councilmen, several of whom are themselves heavy smokers, mulled it over and decided Mrs. Swenson was right.

They compromised between Mrs. Swenson's problem and their habits by decreeing that hence forth there will be a 10-minute recess each hour, during which smokers can stoke up in the hallway.

STREAKING, IN CASE you don't realize it, is now officially passe.

The phenomenon was ushered out in a spectacular fashion at Sebastopol, where thousands were gathered on a recent week end to celebrate the annual Apple Blossom Festival.

In the midst of the festivities a fellow roared through town on a motorcycle a la Lady Godiva, attempting to pull off one of the boldest streaks in the annals of Sonoma County.

His front tire hit a railroad track and the bike flipped, sending the naked rider into the air and back to earth abruptly.

He ended up with a broken arm, which goes to show . . . Well, like I said, streaking was ushered out in spectacular fashion.

ART BUCHWALD

No Place For Energy Crisis, But He's Served His Purpose

WASHINGTON — Three moving men walked into the office of the Energy Crisis and started taking down the pictures and the graphs.

"What are you guys doing?" the Energy Crisis asked.

"We have orders to move all your stuff out. They're moving another Crisis into this office."

"But I just got here," the Energy Crisis protested.

"Don't talk to us. We just do what they tell us."

THE ENERGY CRISIS ran across the street to the White House.

"I'm the Energy Crisis," he told the guard at the gate, "and I have to see the president right away."

The guard telephoned the president's office: "Rose Mary, I have some nut out here who says he's the Energy Crisis and he has to see the President . . . That's what I thought."

The guard said, "The president can't see you, and his secretary says if you have any problems to take them up with his counselor for national crises in the Executive Office Building. Here's a pass. Give it back to me when you come out."

THE ENERGY CRISIS went to the office written on the pass. He was kept waiting for two hours. Finally the secretary said he could go in.

The counselor hardly looked up. "Sit down and make it short," he said.

"Why am I being moved out of my office?" the Energy Crisis demanded.

"You want it straight? We don't need you any more. You're washed up. Get lost."

"But only a few months ago the president said I was the most important issue of the decade. He said I would be here through the '80s. I moved my family to Washington. I gave up a good job with Consolidated Edison and a pension. How can you suddenly decide I'm not needed any more?"

THE COUNSELOR SAID: "You served a purpose. You took people's minds off other crises. But we can't keep you around forever. The American people don't like you, and you're going to have to be sacrificed for political expediency."

"But don't you understand? Nothing's changed. We're going to run out of oil and fossil fuels if we don't have a strong conservation program. Look, I've worked out a plan . . ."

"We're not interested in your plans. If we run out of gas, we run out of gas, but there is no sense worrying everybody about it. Why don't you just admit you don't have what it takes to be a good crisis and leave quietly?"

"What about the Arabs? Suppose they put their boycott on again? Then where are you?"

The counselor yawned. "You really are a bore. Can't you get it through your head this country will not stand for an Energy Crisis? When people had to wait in line for gasoline, we almost had a revolution on our hands. We have a tough election coming up this fall in Congress, and if you were still around in November we could lose everything. You're nothing but bad news."

"BUT DON'T YOU SEE what you're doing to me? A lot of people didn't believe in me in the first place. They said I was a fraud. They said you brought me in just so the oil companies could raise their prices. If you kick me out now no one is ever going to believe me again."

"Look," the counselor said, "you're too caught up in your own problems. You have to see the big picture. We have crises coming out of our ears. We have Watergate; we have tax problems, and we have a credibility gap on our hands. We don't have any room for you. As a matter of fact, we need your office for the lawyers who will be working on the president's impeachment."

"I still think you're making a mistake," the Energy Crisis said.

The counselor replied coldly: "We know what we're doing or we wouldn't be in the White House. Oh, by the way, the president asked me to give you this set of cuff links with his seal on it to show his gratitude for all you did for him. I guess that's all. Now if I could just have your key to the men's room."

Mayor Launches Sales Tax Push

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Ralph Amundesen, a landlord in this southwestern Michigan town, yesterday offered a $300 reward if police catch the robbers who stole his wallet.

"I'm sick and tired of crime," he said.

Lines Drawn For Nude Sunbathers

By GEORGE NEVIN

The long arm of the law will be plucking fewer nude sunbathers off West Marin beaches this summer.

But under a ruling from the district attorney's office, the sun worshippers will have to walk a thin line if they're not to be arrested.

In order to avoid being booked for violating Marin's antinudity law, the sunbathers will have to:

Be on private beaches, which are not included in the coverup law.

Stay on dry land and out of the water.

Avoid offending anyone who will promise to appear in court as a complaining witness.

And, finally, avoid games like volleyball, football and Frisbee, which could make them liable for arrest on suspicion of lewd and lascivious conduct.

But within these limits, anyone wanting an all-over tan has a reasonable chance of avoiding arrest this summer.

In a memo to the sheriff's department, Deputy Dist. Atty. George R. Nock wrote: "The Municipal Court of Marin County has held that this ordinance applies only to public beaches.

"These are defined as beaches owned by the public, or leased or dedicated to the public. . . unless you have reasonable grounds for believing that a particular instance of nudity is occurring on public land, you should not arrest for a violation of this ordinance."

Nock goes on to say that an arrest still is possible if the sunbather is on private land, but for disturbing the peace, not the nudity itself.

He adds: "Before making an arrest for a violation of this section, you must have a complaint from a citizen who is willing to testify in court that his peace was disturbed. . . If no citizen is willing to promise such testimony, the nude person cannot be convicted of a violation of this section, and arrest would therefore be pointless."

Nock's memo points out that any beach owned or leased by the public — including all beaches below the high water mark — are covered by the nudity law.

But several important West Marin beaches not covered include Bolinas and Seadrift beaches, parts of the Tomales Bay shoreline and one small portion of Little Beach near Muir Beach.

It was last July 21 that three nude sunbathers were arrested on Little Beach. Three days later, five others were arrested on Bolinas Beach.

In both cases, Municipal Court Judge David R. Baty ruled they were on private property and could not be convicted of breaking the nudity ordinance.

Ironically, the three Little Beach sunbathers were arrested while on the only part of that beach not leased to the Muir Beach Community Services District.

The owner of that land originated the lease arrangement to put Little Beach under the jurisdiction of the district — and thus under the nudity law —but failed to sign the lease itself. Thus his land is the only part of Little Beach where nude sunbathers can't be arrested.

Commute Tickets Discount On Tap

Elimination of the 25-cent discount Marin and Sonoma county bus and ferry commuters get with purchase of a book of tickets from the Golden Gate Bridge District will be considered by the district's joint finance-auditing and transportation committee at 10 a.m. tomorrow in toll plaza offices.

The proposal was rejected narrowly by the full board of directors Friday as a means to finance the new contract for bus drivers and referred to the committee for more study.
